

Contents

Preface	3
----------------	---

Part I: The degrowth alternative

1. For a radical environmentalism	10
2. The degrowth alternative	19
3. The Left should embrace degrowth	27
4. Let's be less productive	37

Part II: Against eco-modernism

5. Political Ecology gone wrong	48
6. Why eco-modernism is wrong	52
7. Tweeting with the enemy	59

Part III: Rethinking the economic

8. The battle for Harvard, or, how economics became economics	66
9. For a Political Ecological Economics	70
10. The Wolf of Wall Street and the spirit of capitalism	79

Part IV: (De)growth, capitalism, and (eco)socialism

11. Is there a growth imperative in capitalism?	84
12. Socialist growth is an oxymoron	89

Part V: Politics and policies

13. Yes, we can prosper without growth	98
14. Spanish Keynesianism without growth?	105
15. The right to leisure	108
16. Fridays off	112
17. Barcelona's new commons	125
18. The "sharing" economy is not a commons	127
19. A Pope for degrowth	133
20. A society without growth: The planet of The Dispossessed	135

Part VI: Conversations

21. The degrowth debate	142
Fourteen responses to "The degrowth alternative"	142
Response: In defense of the degrowth alternative	154
22. Will trees grow in a degrowth society?	162

Outgrowing the twin simplifications of growth and degrowth (Andy Stirling)	162
Response: Why we need degrowth (Giorgos Kallis)	171
23. Is degrowth a compelling word?	176
"Degrowth"—a problematic economic frame (Brian Dean)	176
Why degrowth has outgrown its name (Kate Raworth)	180
You're wrong Kate, degrowth is a compelling word (Giorgos Kallis)	184
24. Will degrowth be voluntary or involuntary?	188
A very optimistic version of Degrowth? (Brian Davey)	188
In defense of a Mediterranean spirit (Giorgos Kallis)	199

Part VII: A view from the South (of Europe)

25. The growth curse. How the tigers became PIIGS	204
26. Extractivism, the Greek way	208
27. Islandizing the city	211
Further reading	214
Useful websites	217
Academic publications by the author	218