

Contents

List of figures and tables	5
Executive summary	6
Foreword by Philippe Busquin, Commissioner for Research	9
Preface by Ene Ergma, Chairwoman of the Enwise Expert Group	10
Introduction	13
1. From national icons to superwomen	16
Gender and social change from pre-communism to post-communism
2. Funding without freedom, freedom without funding	38
Higher Education and Research & Development sectors in the Enwise countries
3. The bees and the honey	66
Women in science in the Enwise countries
4. How far is the target?	96
Measuring the participation of women scientists from the Enwise countries in the Research Framework Programmes
Enwise Workshops:
□ Young Scientists
□ Debating bioethical issues with women scientists from the Enwise countries
□ Starting a debate with women scientists from the Balkan region
5. Fostering the talents and knowledge of women scientists from the Enwise countries	124
Recommendations
 Epilogue: Abundance or shortage?	132
Gender and scientific excellence in the Enwise countries
 Annexes	136
1. Maps of Europe and the Enwise countries
2. Gender Studies in the Enwise countries
3. Hierarchical structure of scientific degrees system and academic titles/ranks within HE and R&D
4. R&D transformations in the Baltic States
5. HE legislation in the Enwise countries (Transitional period and reforms in view of Enlargement)
6. Distribution of researchers from the Enwise countries across R&D sectors
7. Gender distribution of researchers from the Enwise countries within each country and R&D sector
8. National Academic Staff Grades in the Enwise countries
9. Female Representation in the National Academies of Science of the Enwise countries
10. Helsinki Group on Women and Science – Members from the Enwise countries
11. Helsinki Sub-Group of Statistical Correspondents – Members from the Enwise countries
 Abbreviations	158
Bibliography	160
Acknowledgements	168
Enwise Expert Group (members)	170