

Contents

Preface	page vii
Introduction	1
1 What Makes Money Legitimate?	11
1.1 Is There a 'Nature' of Money?	13
1.2 Legitimacy	22
1.3 Governance	23
1.4 Who Should Govern Money?	26
1.5 Governance, Legitimacy and Democracy	31
2 Current Monetary Systems	34
2.1 The Political Economy of Money in Capitalism	36
2.2 Current Monetary Governance	41
2.3 Legitimacy Claims of Current Monetary Governance	65
2.4 Stakeholders under Governance	81
3 The Political Economy of Monetary Reform	84
3.1 From Financialization to Crisis	84
3.2 The Role of Shadow Banking	86
3.3 Putting Finance in Context	89
3.4 Why Money Captures Public Attention	91
3.5 Towards Fundamental Reform?	97
4 Bitcoin	101
4.1 Critique of the State-Bank Power Nexus	102
4.2 Support from the Fringes: Theoretical Roots	103
4.3 From Free Banking to Cyberlibertarianism: Historical Roots	105
4.4 Digital Alchemism? The Bitcoin Proposal	107
4.5 The Masked Transactor: Bitcoin As Payment System	110
4.6 Digital Gold? Bitcoin As Monetary System	120
4.7 Conclusion	133

5	Regional Money	136
5.1	Attack on Dysfunctional Megasystems	137
5.2	Practitioners' Economic Thought: Theoretical Roots	138
5.3	Historical Roots: The 'Ecology of Money'	142
5.4	Rebuilding Regions with Regional Money: The Proposal	143
5.5	Regionalizing Trust: Output Legitimacy	145
5.6	Monetary Governance by Assembly: Input Legitimacy	156
5.7	Conclusion	158
6	Sovereign Money	160
6.1	A Monetarist Critique of Fractional Reserve Banking	161
6.2	100 Percenters: Historical and Theoretical Roots	162
6.3	Sovereign Money to the Rescue: The Proposal	165
6.4	Money by Decree: Output Legitimacy	167
6.5	The Benevolent Money Dictator: Input Legitimacy	180
6.6	Conclusion	190
7	Modern Monetary Theory (MMT)	193
7.1	Against Constraints	194
7.2	What the State Can Do: Predecessors	195
7.3	Hidden Possibilities: The MMT Proposal	197
7.4	Reclaiming Money As Monopoly: Output Legitimacy	199
7.5	Indivisible Democracy: Input Legitimacy	206
7.6	Conclusion	207
8	Money and Democracy in Perspective	208
8.1	Monetary Reform and Visions of Society	215
8.2	In Search of Monetary Autonomy	217
8.3	Hybridity and Its Discontents	220
8.4	Democratization As Empowerment	224
8.5	The Future Status of Money	230
	Notes	232
	References	241
	Index	269