

CONTENTS

Preface vii

1 Introduction 1

Fake News Is Old News 1

The Need to Be Multi-Literate 2

Understanding the Current State of the Media 3

2 The Information Behavior of It All 5

Learning Theory 5

Misinformation/Disinformation 6

An Emotional Dimension of Information Behavior 7

3 The Illusion of Internet Savvy 10

Political Economy and the Illusion of Choice 10

The Rise of Iterative Journalism 12

4 Critical Thinking and Metaliteracy 15

Critical Thinking 15

Critical Media Consumption through Multiple Literacy Instruction 16

5 Conclusion 20

Revisiting the Headlines 20

Moving Past Fake News 23

Lesson Plan 25

Examples from the Illinois Workshop 26

Appendix: Additional Resources

The Larger Context of Fake News—Suggested Books 29

Multiple Forms of Literacy—Suggested Articles and Websites 30

Resources for Information Consumers 32

References 39

About the Author 43

Index 45