

Contents

List of Reproducible Pages	vi
List of Figures	vi
Foreword by Cindy A. Strickland	vii
Introduction	1

PART 1

Getting Ready

Chapter 1: What Is Differentiation?	5
Differentiated Instruction:
One Size Doesn't Fit All	6
You May Be Differentiating Already	7
Our Diverse Classrooms	7
What Do We Differentiate?	10
What Is the Teacher's Role?	11
Questions and Answers About Differentiating Instruction	13
How Differentiated Is Your Classroom?	18
Chapter 2: Who Are Your Students?	21
Discovering Your Students	21
Finding Out What Students Know	25
The Importance of Knowing Your Students	26
Chapter 3: What Do You Teach?	59
Essential Questions	59
Unit Questions	61
Using Essential and Unit Questions to Differentiate Instruction	62
Choosing a Unit of Your Own	62
Mapping Your Curriculum	63

PART 2

Differentiation in Action

Chapter 4: How Do You Teach?
Planning for Challenge and Variety	73
Challenge: Bloom's Levels of Thinking	73
Variety: Gardner's Nine Ways of Thinking and Learning	75
How Differentiated Is Your Current Unit?	75
The Matrix Plan	80
A Sample Matrix Plan	80
Differentiating Your Unit Using a Matrix Plan	82
The Integration Matrix	82
Many Uses for Your Matrix	90
Chapter 5: What Do Students Need?
Flexible Instructional Grouping	91
Personalizing Learning with Flexible Grouping	91
Flexible Grouping at Exit Points	91
Flexible Grouping Compared with Other Grouping Strategies	92
Questions and Answers About Flexible Grouping	94
Tips on Managing Flexible Groups	95
Student Independence and Flexible Groups	96
Chapter 6: What Do Students Need?
Tiered Assignments	97
Six Ways to Structure Tiered Assignments	97
Deciding When and How to Tier an Assignment	101
Guidelines for Designing Tiered Assignments	101
How to Organize Groups and Give Directions	102
Making Tiering Invisible	104

Chapter 7: What Do Students Need?
Choices	107
Pathways Plans	107
Project Menus	111
Challenge Centers.....	113
Spin-Offs.....	115

Chapter 8: What About Grading?	125
Establishing Quality Criteria for Differentiated Activities	125
Grades Are Cumulative	126
Don't Grade Everything.....	126
Grades = Rigor	126
Totally 10	129

Chapter 9: How Do You Manage Differentiation?	131
Preparing to Differentiate.....	131
Preparing Your Students and Classroom.....	131
Managing Student Work	132

Chapter 10: How Do You Differentiate for Special Populations?	135
Differentiated Instruction and Special Needs Students	135
An Idea from Your Special Education Colleagues	138
Other Differentiation Strategies for Special Needs Students	138
Differentiated Instruction for Gifted and Talented Students.....	139
Curriculum Compacting.....	141
Individual Planning	143
The Importance of Mentors	145

Final Thoughts:
Teaching as a Creative Activity	149

Appendix A:
Letter to Families	150

Appendix B:
Differentiating Classroom Discussions	151
Using Classroom Questions to Differentiate Learning	151
Brainstorming	152
Learning Dialogues.....	153

Appendix C:
Content Catalysts, Processes, and Products (CCPP) Toolkit	159

References and Resources	161
---------------------------------------	-----

Index	163
--------------------	-----

About the Author	167
-------------------------------	-----