

Contents

Introduction 7

Backcloth 13

Part One How the couple is formed 25

1 How behaviour is handed down 26

Childhood 26

The female route: learning and rebellion 27

The male route: the mother 30

2 Youth against domesticity 34

What's in a style? 36

Home sweet home? 38

An uneven social trend 39

Rebellion and the way behaviour is handed down 43

The life cycle 45

3 Domestic commitment 47

The blind eye 47

Weighing each other up 48

First habits 49

Memories of first encounters 51

Making a good impression 51

Setting up home: the surge of domesticity 52

When do two people become a couple? 55

The washing machine and the couple 57

Maintaining a close relationship with the mother 60

Resisting domestic commitment 62

Quasi-couples 63

The irresistible process of domestic commitment 66

Domestic habits and commitment 73

Understanding the new by looking at the old 76

Roles and habits 82

Part two The individual re-worked 85

4 Couple and Individual 86

What remains of the individual in the couple? 86

Household tasks: collective approach or every man for himself? 90

How tasks are shared out 93

5 Fragments of personality and strategies for interaction 98

Self-image 98

The significance of actions 99

Manipulating inherited behaviour 102

The effect of interaction 104

Opportunities for invention 106

Multiple self and interaction 108

Forms of dual personality 111

Stabilisation through roles 113

Fragmentation of personality 113

Achieving unity 115

Part Three
Adjustments and contradictions in the couple 117

- 6 The notion of equality 118
The equality revolution 118
The power of the idea 120
The idea and the reality 121
The shape of things to come 123

- 7 Expertise 127
Building up expertise 127
Expertise as a liability 131
The pleasure principle 134

- 8 Give and take 138
'It just worked out like that' 138
Two contradictory approaches . . . 140
. . . intimately linked 141
Sharing out the tasks 143

- The impossible assessment 146
The secret exit 149
Cheating with the gift 151
Making the gift pay 152

- 9 Silence and speech 156
Stories without words 156
The two types of speech 158
The two levels 162
The two kinds of silence 164
The little comment 167

- 10 From laughter to tears 172
Minor clashes 172
Irritation and amusement 177

Part Four Men and women 181

- 11 The female route: the trap 182
The mechanism of the trap 182
The protected male 183
The trap: invisible and unacceptable 185
A love affair with laundry 189
The husband's game 191
Portraits of women caught in the trap 193
Women struggling against the trap 197

- 12 The male route: the guilty pupil 200
The man as pupil 200
The bad pupil 203
The guilty male 205

Conclusion 209

Appendix: The couples 213

Bibliography 233

Acknowledgments 240