

Contents

List of Illustrations ix

Acknowledgments xi

- Chapter 1 Introduction: Why Quantitative Methods for Constructivist and Critical Theorizing? 1
J. SAMUEL BARKIN AND LAURA SJOBERG

Part 1. Statistical Methods

- Chapter 2. Measuring Critical Theories of Human Rights 29
BROOKE ACKERLY, WITH JOSÉ MIGUEL CRUZ,
ANNA CARELLA, AND BISHAWJIT MALLICK
- Chapter 3. Quantitative Methods and Constructivist
Theorizing for Conflict Studies 51
CAMERON G. THIES
- Chapter 4. Exploring Constitution and Social Construction through Network Analysis 72
MATTHEW HOFFMANN
- Chapter 5. Dimensions of Identity Construction and the Measurement of Differences among Countries 95
PAUL A. KOWERT

Part 2. Formal and Computational Methods

- Chapter 6. Computing Narratives: Assemblage Relations in Diplomatic Conversations 123
DAVID SYLVAN

- Chapter 7. Thinking Counterfactually and with Discipline:
Agent-Based Models for Constructing and Deconstructing the Future 145

IAN S. LUSTICK

- Chapter 8. Constructing Rational International
Fisheries Governance 174

J. SAMUEL BARKIN

- Chapter 9. Theoretical Geometry, Critical Theory, and Concept Spaces in IR 196

LAURA SJOBERG AND KEVIN KNUDSON

Part 3. Reflections and Looking Forward

- Chapter 10. Practicing (Social-)Scientific Pluralism 227

PATRICK THADDEUS JACKSON

- Chapter 11. Conclusion: Prospects for Interpretive Quantification 243

J. SAMUEL BARKIN AND LAURA SJOBERG

Contributors 265

Index 269