
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	v
Contributors	xiii

Part I: Introducing the Foundations of Public Law

1. Questioning the Foundations of Public Law and Questioning Foundations of Public Law	3
Michael A Wilkinson and Michael W Dowdle
I. Introduction	3
II. Law and Politics	5
III. The Evolution of the Modern State	7
IV. Continuity and Critique	9
A. The Methodological Critique	9
B. The Normative Critique	10
C. The Material Critique	12
D. The Comparative Critique	13
2. Political Jurisprudence	15
Martin Loughlin
I. Introduction	15
II. Schools of Jurisprudence	15
III. The Nature of the Inquiry	17
IV. The Political Domain	19
V. The State	22
VI. Power and Authority	23
VII. Constitution	26
VIII. The Logic of Political Jurisprudence	26
IX. Conclusion	28

Part II: The Methodological Critique

3. Questioning a Uniform Concept of Public Law	33
Andrew Halpin
I. Introduction	33
II. A Preliminary Digression on Goldsmith and Levinson	34
III. The Autonomy of Public Law	37
IV. Relating a Science of Political Right to Public Law	40
V. The Grammar of Public Law	45
VI. Why the Juristic Turn?	48

4.	The Tragic Politics of Public Law.....	51
	Panu Minkkinen
	I. Introduction	51
	II. 'The Whirlwind of Rights'.....	54
	III. The Polemical Intervention	57
	IV. Tragic Metapolitics	60
5.	Immanence and Irreconcilability: On the Character of Public Law as Political Jurisprudence.....	63
	Jacco Bomhoff
	I. Introduction	63
	II. Taking Religion Seriously: Political Jurisprudence as Secular	67
	III. Autonomy and Ambivalence.....	71
	IV. Taking Legalism Seriously: Political Jurisprudence as Law	73
	V. Taking Exteriority Seriously: Public Law as Immanent ?	76
	VI. Ritual and 'In-between' Spaces	79
	VII. Conclusion	81
Part III: The Normative Critique
6.	Concrete Order Formation or Rational Will Formation? Constituent Power as the Ratio of Voluntas	85
	Hauke Brunkhorst
	I. The Dialectic of Potestas and Potentia	85
	II. Nomos and the Genealogy of Political Power.....	87
	III. The Social Origin of Political Power	90
	IV. Secularisation, Sovereignty and Rationality.....	92
	V. Constituent Power, Ratio and Voluntas	94
	VI. The Radical Democratic Reading of Constituent Power.....	96
7.	Private Law, Potentia and the Ethical: On What Justification Does the State Coercively Tax its Subjects in Order to Build Bridges, Fund the BBC, and Subsidise Charities?	99
	James Penner
	I. Introduction	99
	II. Loughlin on Societas , Universitas , Potestas and Potentia	100
	III. Kant on Private Right and the Foundations of the State.....	102
	IV. Raz on the Rights of Citizens and the Justification of the State.....	103
	V. Potestas and Potentia , and the Moral and the Ethical	104
	VI. Justifying Potentia and the Ethical in Politics	107
	VII. Conclusion.....	113
8.	A Conventional Narrative: The Rhetorical Shape of Foundations of Public Law	115
	Anna Yeatman
	I. Introduction: A Conventional Narrative.....	115
	II. The Early Modern Discovery of the Idea of the State.....	116

III.	The Liberal Idea of the State	123
IV.	The Twentieth Century State—The Narrative of ‘the Triumph of the Social’ and the Displacement of Political Right by Regulatory Power.....	126
V.	Conclusion	131
9.	Foundations of Public Law and Postnational Constitutionalism	133
	Neil Walker
I.	Introduction.....	133
II.	What Would Count as Evidence of an Underlying Shift?.....	134
III.	On Whom Lies the Burden to Imagine and Chart the Future?.....	138
Part IV: The Material Critique
10.	Putting Public Law in its Place: State-Theoretical Comments on Foundations of Public Law	143
	Bob Jessop
I.	Introduction.....	143
II.	Seven Approaches to the Analysis of the State	144
III.	Conceptual History and its Limitations	146
IV.	Beyond Allgemeine Staatslehre	151
	A. State Territory.....	152
	B. State Apparatus.....	153
	C. State Population	154
	D. The State Idea	156
V.	Public Law, the Multi-Dimensionality of the State and Substantive Crisis Mechanisms.....	157
VI.	Concluding Comments and Direct Questions.....	161
11.	The Materiality of Political Jurisprudence	165
	Marco Goldoni
I.	Introduction.....	165
II.	Methodology: The Prudential Rationality of Political Jurisprudence	166
III.	Trajectory: From a Functional to a Reflexive Political Jurisprudence.....	168
IV.	Object: Right Ordering and its Grammar	172
V.	Subjectivity: The Material Constitution.....	175
12.	Public Law and the Autonomy of the Political: A Material Critique	181
	Michael A Wilkinson
I.	Introduction.....	181
II.	What Grounds the Autonomy of the Political?	185
III.	The Relation between the Political and the Economic in the Material Ordering of the Nomos	188
IV.	The Interwar Breakdown of Public Law: A Crisis of the State	193
V.	The Post-War Constitutional Imagination: A Transformation of the State.....	199
VI.	Conclusion	204

Part V: The Comparative Critique

13.	Foundations of Public Law: A View from the United States	209
	Mark Tushnet
	I. Introduction	209
	II. US Constitutionalism: No Itch to Scratch?	210
	III. The UK's Position in a Changing World	213
14.	The Elusive Quest for Community: The Making of Political Identity in Modern Indian Constitutionalism	217
	Mathew John
	I. Introduction	217
	II. The Authority of Community in Public Law	218
	III. Constitutionalism as the Search for Community in Colonial and Post-Colonial India	219
	IV. Adjudicating Minority Rights in the Indian Constitution	223
	A. The Constitutional Framework	223
	B. Two Conceptualisations of 'Minorities'	224
	V. Locating Loughlin against Gandhi's Rejection of the Nation	229
	VI. Searching for the 'Foundations' of Indian Constitutionalism	231
15.	Uncovering the Foundations of Administrative Law?	235
	Denis Baranger
	I. Introduction	235
	II. Public Law as (Essentially) 'Sporadic and Peripheral'	237
	A. The Problem in Historical Terms	237
	B. The Conceptual Problem: The State and its Avatars	240
	III. In Search of a Foundation	244
	A. France: The Search for the 'Constitutional Bases' of Administrative Law	244
	B. Britain: 'A Foundation with too much Sand and not enough Rock'	248
	IV. Conclusion: Towards a Loughlinian Framework for Contemporary Public Law?	249
	A. Administrative Discretion: Potestas or Potentia ?	250
	B. The 'Right Ordering' of Administrative Law?	251

Part VI: The Response

16.	Excavating Foundations	255
	Martin Loughlin
	I. Introduction	255
	II. Approaches to Public Law	255
	III. Method and Objective of Foundations	258
	IV. State Theory	259
	V. State and Power in Analytical Jurisprudence	261
	VI. The Secularisation Thesis	262
	VII. How is Public Law Law?	264

VIII. Is Foundations Conservative?265

IX. The Material Critique.....266

X. The Civic Republican Critique268

XI. The Rise of the Social270

XII. The Post-National Critique.....271

XIII. The Post-Colonial Critique.....272

XIV. American Exceptionalism273

XV. Conclusions275

Bibliography277

Index291