

---

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Contributors	ix
Introduction David Burchell and Andrew Leigh	1
Part 1: Surveying the problem
1 Distrustful, disenchanted and disengaged? Public opinion on politics, politicians and the parties: An historical perspective Murray Goot	9
2 Explaining distrust: Popular attitudes towards politicians in Australia and the United States Andrew Leigh	47
3 Perpetual disillusionment David Burchell	62
Part 2: The ethics of rule
4 Mistrust, malice and misinformation Jan Wade	81
5 The ethics of public opinion Bob Hogg	98
6 Ethics around the cabinet table Jeff Shaw	112
Part 3: Ethics, politics and office
7 Holding on to office Jeffrey Minson	127
8 Trust, lies and politics Conal Condren	145
9 What's so responsible about responsible government? John Uhr	155
Afterword: Advice for princes and counsellors David Burchell and Andrew Leigh	167
References	172
Index	186