

CONTENTS

Prelude: Not Waving but Drowning xvii

Preface: Six Degrees of Overload xxi

Introduction: Peak connection 1

Ever aware, 24/7 2

The teeming brain 4

Degrees of connectedness 8

Origins of the stressed species 10

A new operating system 13

The kingdom of the well 15

Hardware, software 19

Social Health 23

The social network 27

Fully connected outcomes 29

How to use this book 31

PART ONE The way to Wellville 33

1 Hostile landscapes 35

The Spreading Rate 35

Lost girls 40

Quarantine 43

- Guilty Luck 49
Ducking and Diving 51

2 Fitness as a metaphor 59

- Our bodies, ourselves 59
Aristotle's gym 63
Person of the year 70
Flourishing habits 73
Balancing patterns 78
Hexagon thinking 86
The Social Health KNOT 93

3 New hierarchies of need 101

- The boy on the Paris Metro* 101
Menlo Park millennials 104
Face-to-face in a Facebook world 108
Future shock 118
Timescalebending 124
Techno Shabbat 129

PART TWO The blended self 135

4 The social soul 137

- Naomi and Gladys* 137
The family clan 143
Walk and talk 146
Coffee cup conversation 150
Tinderbox sex 154
Clearing the beach 162

5 Worker beings 169

- The bad job interview* 169
Paperweight 173
The lonely skyscraper 179
Hydroponic hives 184
Disruption on purpose 188
Marzipan Managers 196
Highly peripheral people 206

6 Networks and networkers 211

- The ghetto and the garden* 211
Billions of shy people 215
The rules of Guanxi 221
Brokers and builders 227
The Global Green Room 237
Jazz ensembles and orchestras 244

Conclusion: The fully connected future 251

Appendix: Hexagon Thinking – six practical practices around social health 261

Postscript: A view from the bridge 281

Bibliography 283

Acknowledgements 303

Index 309