

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Dedication	xi
Reflections: An Introduction and an Auto(geo)biography SIMON CATLING	xiii
The Charney Effect
.....
Making sense of Charney Part 1: A letter to Charney JEREMY KRAUSE	3
Putting the meanders back into learning: Reflections on contexts, influences and provocations from Charney Manor Conferences 1999-2016 PAULA OWENS	7
The Charney factor – The Charney Conferences and primary geography in the Republic of Ireland SUSAN PIKE	14
The Charney Manor Conferences in Japanese geography education research TAKASHI SHIMURA	17
Personal Geographical Perspectives
.....
‘You can take the boy out of Yorkshire . . .’ – Memories of a northern primary education and suggestions for using technology to explore the local area ALAN PARKINSON	23
A journey through time TINA HORLER	26
From Charney to President STEVE RAWLINSON	28
So near and yet so far JON CANNELL	37

Reflections on a career in primary initial teacher education GREG CRACKNELL	39
Geography in Primary Schooling
.....
Then and now . . . or connecting with Gertrude PAUL G WILLIAM	47
Where are we now, and how did we get here? MARGARET MACKINTOSH	52
Representations of primary geography in Teaching Geography from 1975 to 1989 MELANIE NORMAN	58
Equality of access to a primary geography education within a self-improving school system in England SIMON ASQUITH	65
Geeky and boring, or real and relevant? Reflections on the image of geography in primary schools EMMA TILL	68
Reflections on primary geography – Where are we now and how do we find our way in the future? CHRIS TREVOR	70
Developments in primary geography teaching in independent Prep schools PAUL BAKER	77
Characteristics of primary geography in Japan KAZUYOSHI YOSHIDA	82
Primary and secondary geography: Common ground and some shared dilemmas MARY BIDDULPH	85
Geography and children’s well-being – A personal reflection JULIA TANNER	89
A reflection on the schemes of work in geography – Why, how, what and when? PAULA RICHARDSON	94
The changing face of technology in primary schools and the impact on geography KATE RUSSELL	97
The ‘joys’ of independence: The responsibility of geography teaching and curriculum making in a Preparatory school ASSUNTA SPINA	101
Perspectives on geography subject leadership in primary schools 1970-2016 JOHN HALOCHA	104

Teaching and Learning Primary Geography

'Is not the King's name twenty thousand names?' Why geographical language sticks	111
PHILIP MAUDSLEY
A new potential for maps in the classroom?	113
EMILY ROTCHELL
Speaking geographically: The importance of talking about and through primary geography	115
ANNE DOLAN
Young children's ideas of different nations, peoples and cultures: A research perspective	121
STEPHEN SCOFFHAM
Overcome borders – An integrated subject approach for teaching science and social science in primary school	128
DANIELA SCHMEINCK
What makes intercultural study visits meaningful? A look at the pedagogy of study visit experiences	132
IMOGEN SAHI
Places, spaces and boundaries: A critical look at the relational in geography classrooms	140
FRAN MARTIN & FATIMA PIRBHAI-ILLICH
Without walls	147
STEPHEN PICKERING
Changing perspectives on fieldwork	151
RACHEL BOWLES
Taking the fear out of fieldwork	157
LINDSAY WEST
Fostering geographical wisdom in fieldwork spaces – Discovery fieldwork, paying close attention through sensory experience and slow pedagogy	159
SHARON WITT

Primary Geography Teacher Education

What do people remember and what do teachers assume about primary geography in Ireland?	167
SHELAGH WADDINGTON
Becoming a geography teacher in a primary school: Reflections on the value of HEIs in ITE	171
CLARE BROOKS
Developing primary student teachers' pedagogical content knowledge for the subject of geography in the Netherlands: Challenges and constraints	174
MARIAN BLANKMAN
Pre-service primary geography: Everyday geography and geographical thinking	178
SIMON CATLING

Local ways into ESD: Wonder-ful thinking at the dump	185
ANTHONY BARLOW
Teaching primary student teachers about development issues: Avoiding stereotypes and prejudice	194
RICHARD GREENWOOD
Finding my place within primary geography education: Exploring a transitional moment in my professional identity	198
JOE USHER
Finding my place: Reflecting on new beginnings as a geography educator	202
SANDRA AUSTIN

Returning to Charney

.....

Making sense of Charney Part 2: Sense of place – A reflection	209
JEREMY KRAUSE
Charney 2125: Moribund or vital?	213
TESSA WILLY
Twenty conferences on! A reflection on the Charney Manor Primary Geography Conferences 1995-2017	216
SIMON CATLING	