

Contents

Authors' Note

vii

PART I. TRANSCENDING MODERNITY: INTERWAR AND WARTIME VISIONS OF REGENERATION

1. Nation-State Building and its Alternatives	5
1.1 Ideas of self-determination	5
1.2 The minority question	17
1.3 Centralism, regionalism, federalism	30
1.4 Critical interpretations of nationalism	53
2. Liberalism on the Defensive	67
2.1 The reorientation of "national liberalisms" and projects of "neoliberalism"	67
2.2 The political ambiguities of aesthetic "progressivism"	84
2.3 Varieties of anti-totalitarianism	92
3. The Many Faces of Leftism	105
3.1 The radicalization of leftist politics	105
3.2 In search of democratic socialism	121
3.3 Pluralism and dogmatism	129
4. The "Third Way"	142
4.1 Agrarian populism: Regional patterns and local agendas	142
4.2 Beyond left and right?	152
5. Toward a Conservative Revolution	162
5.1 The discourse of crisis	162
5.2 National characterologies and ethnic ontologies	174
5.3 The politics of religion: Radicalization, sacralization, and ethnicization	181
6. A New State for "New Men"	205
6.1 Technocracy, corporatism, and authoritarianism	205
6.2 Varieties of fascism and biopolitical nationalism	225
7. The Second World War: Collaboration, Resistance, and Visions of the Postwar Order	242
7.1 Integration into Neues Europa	242
7.2 Exile and domestic resistance movements	252

PART II. HYBRIDIZED MODERNITY: COMMUNISM, REFORMISM, AND DISSENT IN A DIVIDED EUROPE		277
8. The Postwar "Transition Years"		285
8.1 Breakdown and reorientation		285
8.2 Communist visions of transformation		303
8.3 Noncommunist alternatives: Between "great expectations" and painful defeats		316
8.4 Ideological dilemmas of anticommunist resistance movements		334
9. Stalinism and De-Stalinization		342
9.1 Sovietization and Stalinism: Captive minds		342
9.2 The voices of dissent: Fugitive minds		353
9.3 The "Thaw": Halfhearted de-Stalinization and the eruption of discontent		360
10. Toward Socialism with a Human Face?		371
10.1 "Marxist revisionism" as a political language		371
10.2 Exploring the contradictions of "really existing socialism"		385
10.3 The cultural upsurge of the sixties and its political aspects		397
10.4 Be Marxist, demand the impossible		418
10.5 Religion, communism, and modernity		437
Index		459