

Brief Contents

- 1 Starting with Inquiry: Habits of Mind of Academic Writers 1
- 2 From Reading as a Writer to Writing as a Reader 38
- 3 From Writing Summaries and Paraphrases to Writing Yourself into Academic Conversations 64
- 4 From Identifying Claims to Analyzing Arguments 87
- 5 From Identifying Issues to Forming Questions 114
- 6 From Formulating to Developing a Thesis 141
- 7 From Finding to Evaluating Sources 165
- 8 From Synthesis to Researched Argument 187
- 9 From Ethos to Logos: Appealing to Your Readers 247
- 10 From Image to Text 287
- 11 From Introductions to Conclusions: Drafting an Essay 314
- 12 From Revising to Editing: Working with Peer Groups 344
- 13 Other Methods of Inquiry: Interviews and Focus Groups 371

Entering the Conversation of Ideas 401

- 14 Education: What does it mean to be educated? Who has access to a good education, and why? 403
- 15 Sociology: How does studying human social behaviors help us understand ourselves and the world? 453
- 16 Media Studies: What can we learn from what entertains us? 494
- 17 Psychology and Biology: How do our physical and cultural selves intersect? 593
- 18 Sustainability and Environmental Studies: How do our decisions affect our environment? 666
- 19 Economics: How do economics shape our self-understandings and possibilities? What kinds of choices do we have? 741

Appendix: Citing and Documenting Sources 799

Index of Authors, Titles, and Key Terms 817

Contents

Preface for Instructors	vii
Brief Contents	xxi
Thematic Table of Contents	xxxix
How This Book Supports WPA Outcomes for First-Year Composition	xlvii

1 Starting with Inquiry

Habits of Mind of Academic Writers 1

---

What Is Academic Writing? 1

What Are the Habits of Mind of Academic Writers? 3

Academic Writers Make Inquiries 5

- ▣ Steps to Inquiry 6
- ▣ A Practice Sequence: Inquiry Activities 6

Academic Writers Seek and Value Complexity 7

- ▣ Steps to Seeking and Valuing Complexity 8
- ▣ A Practice Sequence: Seeking and Valuing Complexity 8

Academic Writers See Writing as a Conversation 9

- ▣ Steps to Joining an Academic Conversation 11
- ▣ A Practice Sequence: Joining an Academic Conversation 11

Academic Writers Understand That Writing Is a Process 12

Collect Information and Material 13

▣ Steps to Collecting Information and Material 13

Draft, and Draft Again 13

▣ Steps to Drafting 14

Revise Significantly 14

▣ Steps to Revising 15

Academic Writers Reflect 15

▣ Steps to Reflection 17

▣ A Practice Sequence: Reflection Activities 18

Becoming Academic: Three Narratives 19

TA-NEHISI COATES, Between the World and Me 20

RICHARD RODRIGUEZ, Scholarship Boy 24

GERALD GRAFF, Disliking Books 31

▣ A Practice Sequence: Composing a Literacy
Narrative 36

2 From Reading as a Writer to Writing as a Reader 38

Reading as an Act of Composing: Annotating 38

Reading as a Writer: Analyzing a Text Rhetorically 41

E. D. HIRSCH JR., Preface to Cultural Literacy 42

Identify the Situation 45

Identify the Writer's Purpose 46

Identify the Writer's Claims 47

Identify the Writer's Audience 47

▣ Steps to Analyzing a Text Rhetorically 48

▣ A Practice Sequence: Analyzing a Text
Rhetorically 48

EUGENE F. PROVENZO JR., Hirsch's Desire for a National Curriculum 49

Writing as a Reader: Composing a Rhetorical Analysis 51

DAVID TYACK, Whither History Textbooks? 52

An Annotated Student Rhetorical Analysis 55

QUENTIN COLLIE, *A Rhetorical Analysis of "Whither History
Textbooks?" (Student Writing)* 56

Writing a Rhetorical Analysis	58
SHERRY TURKLE, The Flight from Conversation	59
■ A Practice Sequence: Writing a Rhetorical Analysis	63

3 From Writing Summaries and Paraphrases to Writing Yourself into Academic Conversations 64

---

Summaries, Paraphrases, and Quotations	64
Writing a Paraphrase	65
■ Steps to Writing a Paraphrase	69
■ A Practice Sequence: Writing a Paraphrase	69
Writing a Summary	69
CLIVE THOMPSON, On the New Literacy	70
Describe the Key Claims of the Text	72
Select Examples to Illustrate the Author's Argument	74
Present the Gist of the Author's Argument	74
Contextualize What You Summarize	75
■ Steps to Writing a Summary	77
■ A Practice Sequence: Writing a Summary	77
Writing Yourself into Academic Conversations	77
■ Steps to Writing Yourself into an Academic Conversation	79
■ A Practice Sequence: Writing Yourself into an Academic Conversation	79
TOM STANDAGE, History Retweets Itself	80

4 From Identifying Claims to Analyzing Arguments 87

---

Identifying Types of Claims	87
DANA RADCLIFFE, Dashed Hopes: Why Aren't Social Media Delivering Democracy?	88
Identify Claims of Fact	91
Identify Claims of Value	93
Identify Claims of Policy	93
■ Steps to Identifying Claims	95
■ A Practice Sequence: Identifying Claims	95
Analyzing Arguments	96
Analyze the Reasons Used to Support a Claim	96
Identify Concessions	99
Identify Counterarguments	100

An Annotated Student Argument	101
MARQUES CAMP, The End of the World May Be Nigh, and It's the Kindle's Fault (Student Writing)	102
■ Steps to Analyzing an Argument	104
■ A Practice Sequence: Analyzing an Argument	105
SUSAN D. BLUM, The United States of (Non)Reading: The End of Civilization or a New Era?	105
Analyzing and Comparing Arguments	108
STUART ROJSTACZER, Grade Inflation Gone Wild	108
PHIL PRIMACK, Doesn't Anybody Get a C Anymore?	110
■ A Practice Sequence: Analyzing and Comparing Arguments	112

5 From Identifying Issues to Forming Questions 114

Identifying Issues	115
Draw on Your Personal Experience	116
Identify What Is Open to Dispute	116
Resist Binary Thinking	117
Build on and Extend the Ideas of Others	118
Read to Discover a Writer's Frame	119
Consider the Constraints of the Situation	121
■ Steps to Identifying Issues	122
Identifying Issues in an Essay	122
ANNA QUINDLEN, Doing Nothing Is Something	123
■ A Practice Sequence: Identifying Issues	125
Formulating Issue-Based Questions	126
Refine Your Topic	128
Explain Your Interest in the Topic	128
Identify an Issue	129
Formulate Your Topic as a Question	129
Acknowledge Your Audience	129
■ Steps to Formulating an Issue-Based Question	130
■ A Practice Sequence: Formulating an Issue-Based Question	130
An Academic Essay for Analysis	132
WILLIAM DERESIEWICZ, The End of Solitude	132

6 From Formulating to Developing a Thesis 141

---

- Working versus Definitive Theses 142
- Developing a Working Thesis: Four Models 143
  - The Correcting-Misinterpretations Model* 143
  - The Filling-the-Gap Model* 144
  - The Modifying-What-Others-Have-Said Model* 145
  - The Hypothesis-Testing Model* 145
    - ▀ Steps to Formulating a Working Thesis: Four Models 146
    - ▀ A Practice Sequence: Identifying Types of Theses 146
- Establishing a Context for a Thesis 148
- An Annotated Student Introduction: Providing a Context for a Thesis 148
  - COLIN O'NEILL, Money Matters: Framing the College Access Debate (Student Writing) 148
  - Establish That the Issue Is Current and Relevant* 151
  - Briefly Present What Others Have Said* 151
  - Explain What You See as the Problem* 152
  - State Your Thesis* 153
    - ▀ Steps to Establishing a Context for a Thesis 153
  - Analyze the Context of a Thesis* 154
  - KRIS GUTIÉRREZ, from Teaching Toward Possibility: Building Cultural Supports for Robust Learning 154
    - ▀ A Practice Sequence: Building a Thesis 158
- An Annotated Student Essay: Stating and Supporting a Thesis 159
- VERONICA STAFFORD, Texting and Literacy (Student Writing) 160

7 From Finding to Evaluating Sources 165

---

- Identifying Sources 166
  - Consult Experts Who Can Guide Your Research* 168
  - Develop a Working Knowledge of Standard Sources* 169
  - Distinguish between Primary and Secondary Sources* 169
  - Distinguish between Popular and Scholarly Sources* 170
    - ▀ Steps to Identifying Sources 172
    - ▀ A Practice Sequence: Identifying Sources 172
- Searching for Sources 173
  - Perform a Keyword Search* 173

Try Browsing	175
Perform a Journal or Newspaper Title Search	176
▪ Steps to Searching for Sources	177
▪ A Practice Sequence: Searching for Sources	177
Evaluating Library Sources	177
Read the Introductory Sections	178
Examine the Table of Contents and Index	179
Check the Notes and Bibliographic References	179
Skim for the Argument	179
▪ Steps to Evaluating Library Sources	180
▪ A Practice Sequence: Evaluating Library Sources	180
Evaluating Internet Sources	181
Evaluate the Author of the Site	181
Evaluate the Organization That Supports the Site	182
Evaluate the Purpose of the Site	182
Evaluate the Information on the Site	183
▪ Steps to Evaluating Internet Sources	183
▪ A Practice Sequence: Evaluating Internet Sources	184
Writing an Annotated Bibliography	184
▪ Steps to Writing an Annotated Bibliography	185
▪ A Practice Sequence: Writing an Annotated Bibliography	186

8 From Synthesis to Researched Argument 187

---

Writing a Synthesis	188
PAUL ROGAT LOEB, Making Our Lives Count	188
ANNE COLBY AND THOMAS EHRLICH, WITH ELIZABETH BEAUMONT AND JASON STEPHENS, Undergraduate Education and the Development of Moral and Civic Responsibility	195
LAURIE OUELLETTE, Citizen Brand: ABC and the Do Good Turn in US Television	199
Make Connections among Different Texts	211
Decide What Those Connections Mean	212
Formulate the Gist of What You've Read	213
▪ Steps to Writing a Synthesis	217
▪ A Practice Sequence: Writing a Synthesis	218
DAN KENNEDY, Political Blogs: Teaching Us Lessons about Community	219

JOHN DICKERSON, Don't Fear Twitter	222
STEVE GROVE, YouTube: The Flattening of Politics	224
Avoiding Plagiarism	228
▪ Steps to Avoiding Plagiarism	229
Integrating Quotations into Your Writing	230
Take an Active Stance	230
Explain the Quotations	231
Attach Short Quotations to Your Sentences	232
▪ Steps to Integrating Quotations into Your Writing	234
▪ A Practice Sequence: Integrating Quotations	234
An Annotated Student Researched Argument: Synthesizing Sources	234
NANCY PAUL, A Greener Approach to Groceries: Community-Based Agriculture in LaSalle Square (Student Writing)	235
▪ A Practice Sequence: Thinking about Copyright	246

9 From Ethos to Logos

Appealing to Your Readers	247
<hr/>
Connecting with Readers: A Sample Argument	248
JAMES W. LOEWEN, The Land of Opportunity	248
Appealing to Ethos	254
Establish That You Have Good Judgment	255
Convey to Readers That You Are Knowledgeable	256
Show That You Understand the Complexity of a Given Issue	256
▪ Steps to Appealing to Ethos	257
Appealing to Pathos	257
Show That You Know What Your Readers Value	258
Use Illustrations and Examples That Appeal to Readers' Emotions	258
Consider How Your Tone May Affect Your Audience	259
▪ Steps to Appealing to Pathos	260
▪ A Practice Sequence: Appealing to Ethos and Pathos	261
Appealing to Logos: Using Reason and Evidence to Fit the Situation	262
State the Premises of Your Argument	265
Use Credible Evidence	265
Demonstrate That the Conclusion Follows from the Premises	266
▪ Steps to Appealing to Logos	267

Recognizing Logical Fallacies 267

Analyzing the Appeals in a Researched Argument 272

MEREDITH MINKLER, Community-Based Research Partnerships: Challenges and Opportunities 272

■ A Practice Sequence: Analyzing the Appeals in a Researched Argument 286

10 From Image to Text 287

---

Analyzing Visual Rhetoric: Advertisements 288

Notice Where the Ad Appears 290

Identify and Reflect on What Draws Your Attention 291

Consider the Ethos of the Ad 292

Analyze the Pathos in the Ad 292

Understand the Logos of the Ad 292

■ Steps to Visual Analysis 293

■ A Practice Sequence: Analyzing the Rhetoric of an Advertisement 294

Further Ads for Analysis 296

Analyzing Visual Rhetoric: Maps, Photographs, Tables or Charts, and Graphs 297

Using Maps to Make a Point 298

EMILY BADGER, Mapped: The Places Where Most Public School Children Are Poor 298

Using Photographs to Provide Context or Stir Emotions 301

Using Tables to Capture the Issue and Present Findings 301

SUSAN B. NEUMAN AND DONNA CELANO, Access to Print in Low-Income and Middle-Income Communities: An Ecological Study of Four Neighborhoods 302

Using Graphs to Present Findings 309

■ Steps to Using Visuals in Writing an Argument 310

■ A Practice Sequence: Using Visuals to Enhance an Argument 311

NATHAN JINDRA, Neighbors Need LaSalle Branch (Student Writing) 312

11 From Introductions to Conclusions

---

Drafting an Essay 314

Drafting Introductions 314

The Inverted-Triangle Introduction 315

The Narrative Introduction	316
The Interrogative Introduction	317
The Paradoxical Introduction	318
The Minding-the-Gap Introduction	319
■ Steps to Drafting Introductions: Five Strategies	320
■ A Practice Sequence: Drafting an Introduction	320
Developing Paragraphs	321
ELIZABETH MARTÍNEZ, from Reinventing “America”: Call for a New National Identity	322
Use Topic Sentences to Focus Your Paragraphs	326
Create Unity in Your Paragraphs	327
Use Critical Strategies to Develop Your Paragraphs	329
■ Steps to Developing Paragraphs	333
■ A Practice Sequence: Working with Paragraphs	333
Drafting Conclusions	334
Echo the Introduction	335
Challenge the Reader	336
Look to the Future	337
Pose Questions	337
Conclude with a Quotation	338
■ Steps to Drafting Conclusions: Five Strategies	339
■ A Practice Sequence: Drafting a Conclusion	339
Analyzing Strategies for Writing: From Introductions to Conclusions	340
BARBARA EHRENREICH, Cultural Baggage	340

12 From Revising to Editing

Working with Peer Groups	344
Revising versus Editing	344
The Peer Editing Process	345
■ Steps in the Peer Editing Process	346
Peer Groups in Action: A Sample Session	347
An Annotated Student Draft	347
REBECCA JEGIER, Student-Centered Learning: Catering to Students’ Impatience (Student Writing)	348
Working with Early Drafts	354
Understand the Writer’s Responsibilities	354

Understand the Reader's Responsibilities	355
Analyze an Early Draft	356
TASHA TAYLOR, Memory through Photography (early draft)	356
Working with Later Drafts	358
Understand the Writer's Responsibilities	358
Understand the Reader's Responsibilities	359
Analyze a Later Draft	359
TASHA TAYLOR, Memory through Photography (later draft)	360
Working with Final Drafts	363
Understand the Writer's Responsibilities	363
Understand the Reader's Responsibilities	363
Analyze a Near-Final Draft	364
TASHA TAYLOR, Memory through Photography (near-final draft)	364
Further Suggestions for Peer Editing Groups	369

13 Other Methods of Inquiry: Interviews and Focus Groups 371

---

Why Do Original Research?	372
Getting Started: Writing an Idea Sheet	373
A Student's Annotated Idea Sheet	375
DAN GRACE, Idea Sheet for Parent/Child Autism Study (Student Writing)	375
Writing a Proposal	376
Describe Your Purpose	377
Review Relevant Research	377
Define Your Method	378
Discuss Your Implications	378
Include Additional Materials That Support Your Research	379
Establish a Timeline	380
▀ Steps to Writing a Proposal	382
An Annotated Student Proposal	382
LAURA HARTIGAN, Proposal for Research: The Affordances of     Multimodal, Creative, and Academic Writing (Student Writing)	383
Interviewing	389
Plan the Interview	390

Prepare Your Script	390
Conduct the Interview	392
Make Sense of the Interview	393
Turn Your Interview into an Essay	393
▪ Steps to Interviewing	394

Using Focus Groups	394
Select Participants for the Focus Group	395
Plan the Focus Group	395
Prepare Your Script	397
Conduct the Focus Group	398
Interpret the Data from the Focus Group	399
Important Ethical Considerations	399
▪ Steps for Conducting a Focus Group	400

Entering the Conversation of Ideas 401

14 Education

What does it mean to be educated? Who has access to a good education, and why? 403

MARK EDMUNDSON, Who Are You and What Are You Doing Here? A Word to the Incoming Class 405

A professor claims you may have to fight with your college to get a “real education.”

LAURA PAPPANO, How Big-Time Sports Ate College Life 416

A journalist examines the impact of big-time sports on university life.

SUSAN DYNARSKI, Why American Schools Are Even More Unequal Than We Thought 427

A journalist argues for a new approach to addressing the needs of the most financially vulnerable students.

SEAN F. REARDON, JANE WALDFOGEL, AND DAPHNA BASSOK,

The Good News about Educational Inequality 430

Scholars discover encouraging evidence of a narrowing gap between high- and low-income children’s readiness for school.

NIKOLE HANNAH-JONES, School Segregation, the Continuing Tragedy of Ferguson 434

A writer exposes the history of educational inequalities that provide context for Michael Brown’s shooting death in Ferguson, Missouri.

15 Sociology

How does studying human social behaviors help us understand ourselves and the world? 453

---

ALLAN G. JOHNSON, What Is a "System of Privilege"? 454

A sociologist explains how patterns of privilege are often hard to see but have a profound impact on our lives.

CLAUDIA RANKINE, The Condition of Black Life Is One of Mourning 457

Connecting the past to the present, a writer examines personal and political aspects of mourning in the context of the Black Lives Matter movement.

C. J. PASCOE, "Dude, You're a Fag": Adolescent Masculinity and the Fag Discourse 464

Calling someone a "fag" has little to do with homosexuality, argues a sociologist. "Looking at 'fag' as a discourse rather than a static identity reveals that the term can be invested with different meanings in different social spaces."

BARBARA EHRENREICH, How I Discovered the Truth about Poverty 482

In a short, pithy essay, one of America's best-known social commentators takes issue with a classic study of poverty from fifty years ago. Nowadays we have to conclude "that poverty is not, after all, a cultural aberration or a character flaw. Poverty is a shortage of money."

BELL HOOKS, Seeing and Making Culture: Representing the Poor 486

An African American cultural critic makes the case from her personal experience that "television shows and films bring the message home that no one can truly feel good about themselves if they are poor."

16 Media Studies

What can we learn from what entertains us? 494

---

MELISSA AVDEEFF, Beyoncé and Social Media: Authenticity and the Presentation of Self 495

A scholar of popular music considers the "public private" meanings of Beyoncé's Instagram account.

EVAN KINDLEY, from Quiz Mania 507

A critic examines the significance of "BuzzFeed's knack for monetizing the zeitgeist."

WILLIAM POWERS, Not So Busy 515

An author asks how we can make a good life in a digital age.

MARK HAIN, "We Are Here for You": The It Gets Better Project, Queering Rural Space, and Cultivating Queer Media Literacy 525

A scholar of communication and culture considers the role of DIY "It Gets Better" videos for rural LGBTQ youth.

KEN GILLAM AND SHANNON R. WOODEN, Post-Princess Models of Gender: The New Man in Disney/Pixar 542

Two English professors suggest that in family movies such as The Incredibles, Toy Story, and Cars, Disney's Pixar studio "consistently promotes a new model of masculinity, one that matures into acceptance of its more traditionally 'feminine' aspects."

JEAN KILBOURNE, "Two Ways a Woman Can Get Hurt": Advertising and Violence 554

A media educator takes aim at sex in advertising, which she claims is "more often about power than passion, about violence than violins."

SHERRY TURKLE, Growing Up Tethered 578

Is personal development in adolescents hindered by new technologies and the "compulsions of the networked life"? A professor in the Program in Science, Technology, and Society at MIT presents many examples that suggest so.

17 Psychology and Biology

How do our physical and cultural selves intersect? 593

---

CAROL DWECK, from Mindset: The New Psychology of Success 594

A professor of psychology describes two different "mindsets" that shape our responses to challenges, and argues that you can change your mindset.

MARGARET TALBOT, from Brain Gain: The Underground World of "Neuroenhancing" Drugs 605

A New Yorker writer reports on how a new generation of high achievers is increasingly drawn to drugs that improve their already exceptional performances.

MARY AIKEN, Designed to Addict 614

A cyberpsychologist provides scientific explanations for online behaviors that are likely familiar . . . and perhaps downright harmful.

AGUSTÍN FUENTES, from The Myth of Race 629

An anthropologist uses a range of examples to demonstrate the startling implications of his claim that while "humans vary biologically, we can demonstrate that this variation does not cluster into racial groups. What we refer to as human races are not biological units."

WILLIAM J. PEACE, Slippery Slopes: Media, Disability, and Adaptive Sports 650

The author of the blog Bad Cripple examines the effects and consequences of narrow media depictions of disability as something to be miraculously and inspirationally “overcome.”

18 Sustainability and Environmental Studies

How do our decisions affect our environment? 666

RACHEL CARSON, A Fable for Tomorrow 667

In a groundbreaking text, the scientist Rachel Carson launches the modern environmental movement.

SANDRA STEINGRABER, Despair Not 670

Although she marshals a range of sobering evidence about climate change and environmental toxins, an ecologist and cancer survivor exhorts us not to despair about the future: “We can break the spell. We can prepare the way.”

DERRICK JENSEN AND STEPHANIE McMILLAN, As the World Burns: 50 Simple Things You Can Do to Stay in Denial 677

This excerpt from a satiric graphic novel makes a challenging argument: All the little things we do to help the environment make us feel better about ourselves but do not help the planet as much as we like to think.

ANDREW J. HOFFMAN, The Full Scope 693

A scientist considers rhetorical strategies to change “hearts and minds” in the contentious climate-change debates.

ANNA LAPPÉ, The Climate Crisis at the End of Our Fork 702

Yes, “industrial smokestacks” and “oil-thirsty planes and automobiles” contribute to climate change, writes the cofounder of the Small Planet Institute. “Yet the global system for producing and distributing food accounts for roughly one-third of the human-caused global warming effect.”

MICHAEL POLLAN, Why Bother? 715

One of today’s most important writers on food and sustainability sees environmental hope in small lifestyle changes: “Planting a garden sounds pretty benign . . . but in fact it’s one of the most powerful things an individual can do . . . to change the cheap-energy mind.”

McKAY JENKINS, Can GMOs Be Sustainable? 722

An expert on environmental debates offers a nuanced view of GMOs, from the perspective of “enlightened local farmers.”

CAROLYN MERCHANT, Eden Commodified 732

This study by a professor of environmental history, philosophy, and ethics weaves together our fascination with the idea of an Edenic nature and our consumerist desires for convenience to help us think about what those desires may really cost.

19 Economics

How do economics shape our self-understandings and possibilities? What kinds of choices do we have? 741

---

SARA GOLDRICK-RAB, from Paying the Price 742

An expert on the student loan crisis argues that making college affordable is good for everyone.

ROBERT B. REICH, The Rise of the Working Poor 749

An economist explains policy shifts that have “reduced the number of poor people who are jobless, while increasing the number of poor people who have jobs.”

RICHARD H. THALER, CASS R. SUNSTEIN, AND JOHN P. BALZ, Choice Architecture 759

Scholars of business, law, and political science demonstrate how “small and apparently insignificant details can have major impacts on people’s behavior.” Do you know when you’ve been “nudged”?

NAOMI KLEIN, from No Logo 768

What’s wrong with feeling good about buying a product for the prestige of owning a particular brand name? A journalist asks us to think about how and why we have been socialized to feel this way.

ANN DUCILLE, from Multicultural Barbie and the Merchandising of Difference 781

“What did it mean for me that I was nowhere in the toys I played with?” A professor of African American studies explores the ways we all help establish cultural norms through producing and consuming goods and ideas.

Appendix: Citing and Documenting Sources 799

Index of Authors, Titles, and Key Terms 817