

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
1 News Culture	7
Journalism as field and practice	7
News economy	14
News politics	17
Conclusion	22
2 The Impact of News on Foreign Policy	24
The CNN effect	24
The CNN effect and Somalia	28
Problems with the CNN effect	30
Conclusion	37
3 Diplomacy and Signalling	39
The problem of meaning	42
Symbolism and politics	45
Presentations of the self	49
Conclusion	52
4 Vietnam	55
The political background	56
Vietnam and the media	57
Reporting the anti-war movement	62
Conclusion	68
5 Rwanda and Reporting Africa	71
Historical and political background	72
Radio and genocide	76
Media coverage of Rwanda and reporting Africa	77
Conclusion	85
6 Bosnia and Kosovo	87
The media and Bosnia	91
Kosovo and the media	99
Conclusion	102

7 The Middle East	105
Oslo, secrecy and publicity	105
Reporting negotiations	107
News and peace: a problematic relationship	109
Conclusion	121
8 The Northern Ireland Peace Process	123
Political background	123
News and the peace process	126
Conclusion	140
9 The Gulf War, the 'War on Terror' and Iraq	142
The 'war on terror'	147
Al-Jazeera and propaganda	153
The Iraq War, 2003	157
New media	161
Conclusion	163
10 Peace Journalism	165
Journalism and peace dialogue	165
Paradigm shift	173
A conflict resolution dynamic	178
Conclusion	180
Conclusion	183
Bibliography	195
Index	205