

Contents

List of illustrations	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgements	xv

PART ONE

The Apprentice Years

Chapter One 1592–1616: 'The Gracing of young Villiers'	3
Family background and early years 3 James I and the struggle of factions at Court 12 The new favourite 16 The fall of Somerset 21
Chapter Two 1616–18: 'Marks of extraordinary Affection'	25
Advancements in titles and fortune 25 Buckingham and Bacon 29 The fall of the Howards 35 Buckingham as patron 38 The Navy Commission. Buckingham becomes Lord Admiral 48
Chapter Three 1618–20: 'Happy Entrance' and 'Constant Reforma- tion'	53
Marriage and purchase of Burley 53 Relations with other magnates 64 Expansion of the Villiers connexion 67 Anglo- Spanish relations and the Bohemian crisis 76 The Palatinate question 82
Chapter Four 1621–22: 'The only Author of all Grievances and Oppressions'	89
Parliament: the attack on monopolists 89 Buckingham's involvement 93 The fall of Bacon 97 Buckingham under attack. The end of the first session 100 Parliament: the second session, debate on foreign policy 105 Buckingham, Cranfield and the reform programme 111 Puritans and Arminians 114 Family connexions 115 House purchases and financial difficulties 117
Chapter Five 1623: 'We shall go for the daughter of Spain'	125
The problem of the Palatinate 125 Porter's mission 129 The

CONTENTS

journey to Madrid 134 Negotiations over the marriage articles 143 Souring of relations between Buckingham and Olivares 148 Family matters. Buckingham's dukedom 151 The marriage negotiations completed 155 Return to England 163	168
Chapter Six 1624: 'St George on Horseback'
Pressure on Spain to restore the Palatinate 168 Buckingham and leading figures at Court 173 Parliament: differing views on strategy 180 Parliament: religion and subsidies 189 Spanish accusations and Buckingham's illness 192 Negotiations for a French marriage 198 Problems of Anglo-French military co-operation 206 Finances, houses and art collection 210
PART TWO Buckingham in Power
Chapter Seven 1625: 'Your Glorious Match with France'
Mansfeld's expedition 222 Anglo-French relations 229 James's death. The accession of Charles I 233 The journey to France 235 Parliament: the Westminster session 242 The Queen's household and the loan of ships to France 249 Parliament: the Oxford session 255 Coastal defence and preparations for the Cadiz expedition 268 Buckingham in Holland. The Treaty of the Hague 275 Failure of the Cadiz expedition 281 Birth of a son 285	222
Chapter Eight 1626: 'The Chief Cause of these Evils and Mischiefs'
Deteriorating relations between England and France 290 Holland and Carleton's mission 295 Buckingham and the Navy 300 The York House Conference 304 Parliament: the beginning of the attack on Buckingham 308 The impeachment of Buckingham 317 Buckingham's defence. The dissolution of Parliament 325 Buckingham comes to terms with leading critics 331 Problems of the Queen's French household, and anti-Richelieu intrigues 334 Naval preparations and mutinies. The failure of Willoughby's expedition 338 Setbacks for the anti-Habsburg coalition. Bassompierre's mission 345	290
Chapter Nine 1627: 'An ambition to serve faithfully both my King and country'
Anglo-Spanish peace feelers 356 Naval problems and plans for long-term reform 359 Preparations for the Ré expedition 369 Sailing and initial success of the expedition 378 The siege of the citadel. The retreat from Ré 385 Shortage of money and projects for future operations 404 Art collection 408 Finances 412	356
Chapter Ten 1628: 'The Duke shall die'
Crippling effect of shortage of money on naval preparations 419 Parliament: pressure on the Commons to vote supply 426	419

CONTENTS

Debates on the Petition of Right 431 their attack on Buckingham. Parliament dissolved 437 Preparations to relieve La Rochelle 444 and new appointments 446 Diplomatic manoeuvres 449 Last days 451	The Commons renew Financial problems Last
Chapter Eleven Epilogue.....	457
Funeral 457 Felton's trial and execution 458 England withdraws into isolation 459 Buckingham's will. The fate of his houses, art collection, and family 460 A consideration of Buckingham as a political figure 463	England 458 459 460 463
Bibliography	476
Index	487

PLATES

Frontispiece

A child drawing of Buckingham by Robert (Adeline Maudslayi, 1894)

Between pages 140 and 141

Buckingham as a young man, with unknown. (National Portrait Gallery, London)
 James I. and Van Dyck. (Royal Collection, London)
 Prince Charles, by Daniel Mytens. (The Collection at Hampton Court, West London)
 Buckingham Hall, near Malton, Yorkshire, Buckingham's birthplace. (British Architectural Library)

New Hall, Buckingham's house in Essex. (National Monuments Record, London)
 York House, Westminster, Buckingham's London home. (Master and fellows, Magdalene College, Cambridge)

One of a pair of chairs, now in the possession of the Earl of Jersey, which once belonged to Buckingham. (Earl of Jersey)

Fireplace from Apethorpe Hall, Northamptonshire, where Buckingham first met James I. (St John's School, Apethorpe)

Sir John Coke, by Cornelius Jansen. (Forster's Index)

The Count of Gondomar (Spanish Ambassador to England), engraved from a drawing by G. P. Harding after an original painting. (British Museum)

Autograph letter from Buckingham to James, while he and the Prince were in Madrid, 1623. (British Library)

Olivares, by Velazquez. (Staatliche Kunstsammlungen, Dresden)

Samson slaying a Philistine, by Giambologna. (Victoria and Albert Museum, Crown Copyright)

Buckingham on horseback, c. 1625. (Kimbell Art Museum)