

Contents

Notes on the Contributors	xv
Introduction	xx
Robert Adams, Lena Dominelli and Malcolm Payne
What critical practice is and why it is important	xxi
What you can gain from this book	xxi
How the book is structured	xxii
How you may use this book	xxii
1 On Being Critical in Social Work	1
Malcolm Payne, Robert Adams and Lena Dominelli
Critical practice is still relevant in social work	1
Critical practice in social perspective	2
Thinking critically: working with families	3
Practising critically	6
Using theories in being critical	8
The importance of language and understandings	10
Conclusion	11
Further reading	12

PART I	Values into Critical Practice	13
2	Values in Social Work: Contested Entities with Enduring Qualities	15
	Lena Dominelli
	Defining values	16
	Practising values	21
	Values and critical practice	25
	Conclusion	26
	Further reading	27
3	Professional Values and Accountabilities	28
	Sarah Banks
	The importance of accountability	28
	The nature of accountability	29
	Accountability and blame	30
	Multiple accountabilities	33
	Accountability, transparency and critical reflection	34
	Conclusion	36
	Further reading	37
4	Identity, Individual Rights and Social Justice	38
	Chris Clark
	Rights and justice in social work	38
	Practising rights and justice: five models	39
	Critical practice and citizenship	44
	Further reading	45
5	Evaluating Practice	46
	Nick Frost
	Evaluation as a form of practice	46
	Issues, tensions and controversies	47
	A creative evaluation practice?	50
	Utilising and integrating evaluative evidence – a model	53
	Conclusion	54
	Further reading	54

6	Intervention and Empowerment	55
	Beverley Burke and Jane Dalrymple
	Intervention and empowerment in critical practice	55
	Constructing critical practice with Dawn and her children	57
	Continuing reflections	61
	Further reading	62
7	Persistent Oppressions: The Example of Domestic Violence	63
	Audrey Mullender
	The persistence of domestic violence	64
	The failure to offer women effective help	65
	Rediscovering social work skills – a way forward?	66
	Conclusion	70
	Further reading	71
8	‘Glassed-in’: Problematising Women’s Reproductive Rights under the New Reproductive Technologies	72
	Lena Dominelli
	The new reproductive technologies: forces for changing thinking and behaviour	73
	Issues for social worker involvement	76
	Conclusion	79
	Further reading	79
	PART II Developing Critical Practice	81
9	Developing Critical Practice in Social Work	83
	Robert Adams
	What it means to practise critically	83
	Engaging with contexts	84
	Engaging with ourselves	85
	Engaging with knowledge	86
	Engaging with practice	89
	Engaging with paradoxes and dilemmas in developing our own critical practice	91
	Conclusion	95
	Further reading	95

10	Child Protection John Pinkerton	96
	Introducing the practice	96
	Values: measuring up to a vision	97
	Knowledge: testing working hypotheses	100
	Skills: negotiating within a context of inequality	102
	Conclusion	104
	Further reading	105
11	Fostering and Adoption Helen Cosis Brown	106
	Fostering and adoption practice in their current context	106
	Critical application of research to practice	110
	Dilemmas and tensions – ‘safe caring’	113
	Conclusion	114
	Further reading	115
12	Looking After Children and Young People Alastair Roy, Corinne Wattam and Frances Young	116
	Introduction	116
	Communication – relationship skills	117
	Access	121
	Organisational context	123
	Conclusion	124
	Further reading	125
13	Family-based Social Work Kate Morris	126
	Introduction	126
	Legal and policy framework	127
	Importance of family connections	129
	Family group conferences: an example of family involvement	131
	Conclusion	134
	Further reading	135
14	Youth Justice and Young Offenders Kevin Haines	137
	The politics of juvenile crime	139
	Intervention, intervention, intervention	139

	New Labour and youth justice	140
	The managerialist approach	142
	Reconnecting with the past	143
	Fundamental principles for positive critical practice	144
	Conclusion	147
	Further reading	147
15	Community Work	149
	Keith Popple
	Introduction	150
	Defining community work and community	150
	Traditions of community work	152
	The role of the community worker	156
	Conclusion	157
	Further reading	157
16	Care Management	159
	Margaret Lloyd
	Social workers or care managers?	159
	Issues and dilemmas for the practitioner	161
	A framework for good practice	164
	Conclusion	167
	Further reading	168
17	Mental Health	169
	Di Bailey
	Exploring encounters with service users	171
	Weighing options for intervention within the practice context	172
	Making informed judgements, reflection, and critical appraisal	174
	Conclusion	180
	Further reading	180
18	Physical Disability	181
	Bob Sapey
	Disability and social work	181
	Challenging practice	182
	Conclusion	188
	Further reading	189

19	Learning Disability	190
	Tim Stainton
	Introduction: constructing difference	190
	Defining learning disability	191
	Medical, psychological and normalisation approaches	193
	Rights, citizenship and self-determination	195
	Conclusion	197
	Further reading	198
20	Older People	199
	Mo Ray and Judith Phillips
	Critical debates in social work with older people	200
	The contribution of critical practice	204
	Conclusion	208
	Further reading	208
21	Dying and Bereavement	210
	Caroline Currer
	Critical practice with people who are dying or bereaved	210
	Dying	212
	Bereavement	214
	Responding to grief: the social work role in relation to dying and bereavement	216
	Conclusion	218
	Further reading	218
PART III	Managing and Organising Practice	221
22	Management	223
	Malcolm Payne
	Introduction – management and Mrs McLeod	223
	The meaning of management	225
	Ideas about management	227
	Service management and the people served	231
	Organisational structure and culture	232
	Work, management and social divisions	233
	Conclusion	234
	Further reading	235

23	Managing the Workload	236
	Joan Orme
	Introduction	236
	(Mis)managing the workload?	236
	Workload, values and practice	238
	Organisational responsibilities	238
	Individual responsibilities	241
	Management responsibilities	241
	Critical practice	242
	Further reading	243
24	Supervision and Being Supervised	244
	Julia Phillipson
	Uprooting the roots of supervision	245
	Experiencing supervision	246
	Using provocations to question how supervision might be different	248
	Regrowing supervision for critical social work	249
	Conclusion	250
	Further reading	250
25	Coordination and Teamwork	252
	Malcolm Payne
	Agency, profession and discipline	253
	Social work in a multiprofessional team	254
	Boundaries, identity and resources	256
	Multiprofessional network, setting and community	257
	Understanding, power and action	258
	Conclusion	259
	Further reading	259
26	Assessment and Planning	261
	Judith Milner and Patrick O'Byrne
	Introduction	261
	What the work involves	262
	Concepts to be questioned	262
	Social constructionism and assessment	263
	Implications for workers or managers	265

	Conclusion	268
	Further reading	268
27	Managing Risk and Decision Making	269
	Terence O'Sullivan
	What is meant by risk?	270
	What are the social contexts of the decision making?	271
	How are risks to be assessed?	272
	What approach to risk management is to be taken?	275
	Conclusion	276
	Further reading	276
28	Managing Finances	278
	Jill Manthorpe and Greta Bradley
	Introduction	278
	Poor clients	279
	Turning the screw	281
	More than a sticking plaster	282
	Developing skills	283
	Cash not care?	283
	Cash and capacity	285
	Conclusion	286
	Further reading	286
29	Quality Assurance	287
	Robert Adams
	Quality assurance in social work	288
	Four main approaches to quality assurance	288
	Implications for critical practice	294
	Conclusion	294
	Further reading	295
30	Reorganising Agencies	296
	David Peryer
	Introduction: constant change	296
	Multiple objectives, structure and (re)organisation	297
	Reorganisation as a way of life	300

	Conclusion	303
	Further reading	303
31	Concluding Comments: Facilitating Critical Practice Robert Adams, Lena Dominelli and Malcolm Payne	304
	From understanding theoretical debates to practising critically	304
	Agency	304
	Critical practice and good practice: the example of diversity	305
	Changing emphasis: from reflective to critical practice	307
	Constructing bridges	307
	Managing change and continuity	308
	An unfinished agenda	308
	Critical practice is transformational	309
	Paradoxes and dilemmas of practice	310
	Moral hope for practitioners	310
	Bibliography	312
	Index	343