

Contents

Preface 9

Introduction

From the Tokyo Military Tribunal to the Normalization of Japan–South Korea and Japan–China relations 11

Chapter 1

The Japanese History Textbook Issue and “Mutual Trust”

29

1. The Meeting between Emperor Hirohito
and Deng Xiaoping 31
2. The First History Textbook Issue and the Miyazawa Statement 34
3. The Meeting between Emperor Hirohito
and Chun Doo-hwan 48
4. “Mutual Trust” between Nakasone and
Hu Yaobang 52

Chapter 2

Official Visits to Yasukuni Shrine

65

1. Nakasone's Miscalculation 67
2. China's View of Yasukuni 71
3. Calling Off Visits 78
4. The Second History Textbook Issue 85

Chapter 3

The Comfort Women Issue

99

1. Kaifu and Roh Tae-woo 101
2. The Miyazawa Visit to South Korea and the Katō Statement 106
3. The Kōno Statement 114
4. The Transition from the Hosokawa Cabinet to the Murayama Cabinet 132

Chapter 4

The Murayama Statement

141

1. Murayama and the Surrounding Political Environment 143
2. The Bureaucracy 152
3. The Intent behind the Murayama Statement 157
4. The Murayama Statement as a Common Language within Japanese Politics 168

1. Kim Dae-jung and Jiang Zemin Visit Japan 175
2. Koizumi's Visit to Yasukuni 180
3. Within a "Mutually Beneficial Relationship Based on Common Strategic Interests" 189
4. From the Kan Statement to a Proposed Solution to the Comfort Women Issue 196

Epilogue

Is There a Way to Make Historical Issues a Thing of the Past? 207

Afterword 227

Postscript 231

References 237