

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi
List of contributors	vii
List of acronyms	ix
Photographs appearing in the text	xi
Foreword by Lord Best	xii
Chapter 1: Introduction	1
Peter Shanks and David Mullins
Political developments and changing governance structures	1
Evolving policy landscape	5
Economic, demographic and social contexts	8
Overview of the book's structure	12
Chapter 2: Social housing policy in Northern Ireland under devolution 1999-2015	19
Jenny Muir
Devolution in Northern Ireland	20
The governance of social housing	21
Policy, strategy and legislation 1999-2015	24
Meeting housing need with decreasing resources	29
Conclusion	31
Chapter 3: The Housing Executive	35
Paddy Gray and Heather Porter
The first three decades: 1971 to 2001	35
2001-2011: A changing context	38
2011 on: A changing organisation	43
Conclusion: Looking to the future	48
Chapter 4: From the margins to the mainstream: What next for the housing association sector in Northern Ireland?	55
Peter Shanks and David Mullins
Corrymeela conference and the birth of the 'voluntary housing movement'	56
Sector growth, organisational scale and financial capacity	58
Corporate governance transitions and adaptations	61
Diversification and community investment	65
Conclusion: What next for Northern Ireland's housing associations?	67
Chapter 5: The private rented sector in Northern Ireland	73
Paddy Gray and Ursula McAnulty
Great Britain	75
Republic of Ireland	77

Tenant and landlord profiles in Northern Ireland	78
Government measures	81
Addressing the challenges	83
Conclusion	84
Chapter 6: Housing market affordability in Northern Ireland: Developing an index	89
Michael McCord and Stanley McGreal
Introduction	89
Background: house prices and affordability	90
Conceptualising housing market affordability	93
Creating an affordability index for Northern Ireland	95
Results and analysis	97
The deposit gap	100
Multiplier weighting ratio	102
Conclusions	103
Chapter 7: Housing conditions transformed	107
Joe Frey and Jahnet Brown
The transformation of housing conditions: 1972-2000	107
Housing conditions in 2001	111
The changing housing market and policy context	114
Housing conditions in 2011	120
New measures, higher standards	122
Conclusion	125
Chapter 8: Land-use planning in Northern Ireland	129
Greg Lloyd
The spirit and purpose of land-use planning	130
The politics and property rights of land-use planning	131
Statutory land-use planning in Northern Ireland	133
Planning policy and housing delivery in Northern Ireland	136
Planning and social housing in Northern Ireland	138
Conclusions and some critical reflections	140
Chapter 9: Affluence, mobility and ownership of second homes in Northern Ireland	145
Chris Paris
Second homes: debates, definitions and comparisons	146
Distinctive features of second homes in Northern Ireland	149
Second homes in Northern Ireland during the housing boom	152
Conclusions and perspectives on the future	160
Chapter 10: Segregation, territory and housing policy	165
Brendan Murtagh
Housing, violence and the state	166
Housing policy and the Troubles	167

Peace and post-conflict housing	169
Regeneration, assets and community ownership	173
Conclusions	175
Chapter 11: A neglected issue? – Race and housing in Northern Ireland	179
John Perry
The position at the turn of the century	180
How has the position changed since 2001?	181
What happened in the decade up to 2011?	183
What has affected recent change in the foreign-born population?	184
Housing tenure of migrants and ethnic minority groups	185
Housing, neighbourhood pressures and racist incidents	186
What factors are different in Northern Ireland?	192
Strategies to promote better race relations in Britain	194
Actions to tackle racism in Northern Ireland	195
Conclusions	197
Chapter 12: Housing and communities' inequalities in Northern Ireland	201
Alison Wallace
Introduction	201
Equality grounds	203
Conclusion	214
Chapter 13: Supporting People partnerships in Northern Ireland	221
Nick Acheson
Supporting People: the background and evolution of policy	221
Structure and delivery of SP in Northern Ireland	224
The policy context in Northern Ireland: Case-study evidence – homelessness and mental health	228
Some concluding thoughts	234
Chapter 14: Housing policy in Northern Ireland and across the UK	237
Derek Birrell, David Mullins, Alan Murie and Peter Shanks
Housing and devolution	238
The policy-making process	241
Housing issues	242
Engagement with distinctive Northern Ireland issues	250
Synthesis	251
Conclusion	253
Future research agenda	256