

CONTENTS

List of figures	ix
Preface	xi
1 NARRATIVE SCHEMA	1
Psychological use value	1
Logical transformations in narrative	4
Pragmatic forms in narrative	8
Cognitive schemas and other ways of associating data	13
A proposal for a narrative schema	17
The Girl and Her Trust	20
Causality and schema	26
2 STORY WORLD AND SCREEN	33
A preliminary delineation of narrative in film	33
Top-down perception	37
Temporal and spatial order	39
Causality and metaphor	44
Impossible story space	50
Screen space and stylistic metaphors	56
3 NARRATION	63
Knowing how	63
Disparities of knowledge	66
Hierarchies of knowledge	72
Nick Fury as an example	76
Forgetting and revising	83
4 LEVELS OF NARRATION	86
Eight levels	86
An implied author and a chameleon text	92
Focalization	100
Communication	107
Text under a description	111

CONTENTS

A comprehensive description of narrative	114
Five types of narrative theory	118
5 SUBJECTIVITY	125
Levels in Hangover Square	125
Separation of material and structure	140
What makes film subjective? A case study of Lady in the Lake	142
A synthesis: telling/showing/summary/scene	146
Subjectivity in narrative theories	150
How many cameras are in a film?	157
6 OBJECTIVITY AND UNCERTAINTY	161
From subjectivity to intersubjectivity	161
The historical present of invisible observation	164
Simultaneous time schemes	168
Flashback	173
Multiplicity in Letter from an Unknown Woman	177
7 FICTION	192
Fiction as partially determined reference	192
Psychologically real theories of fiction	196
Fictional pictures	198
Nonfictional pictures	202
Post-modernism and documentary in Sans Soleil	207
A brief conclusion	216
Notes	218
Works cited	288
Index	307