

contents

Acknowledgements

xi

Introduction

xiii

Unit one: Projections

1

Aim of this unit 1

The Sapir-Whorf hypothesis 1

Anthropomorphism 6

'God bless her, and all who sail in her' 9

Mother Nature, Father Time 11

The sex life of seals 13

Summary 17

Extension activities 18

Unit two: Making up gender

21

Aims of this unit 21

Bodies of description 22

Social roles 27

Socialisation 28

Fictional worlds 35

Fictionalising ourselves 37

Summary 39

Extension activities 39

Commentaries/Answers to activities 40

Unit three: All in the mind?

41

Aims of this unit 41

The language of the mind 42

Cognition and language 44

Why do we categorise? 45

Keeping it simple 46

Constructing categories 48

The power of cognitive models 49

Typicality	50
From prototypical to stereotypical	52
Mark my words	54
Cognition and reference	58
Gender, generics and grammatical rules	60
Generics and cognition	61
Summary	63
Extension activities	63

Unit four: Political correctness

65

Aim of this unit	65
Where did the term 'political correctness' come from?	65
Language myths	66
Linguistic neutrality?	69
Reforming language	69
The liberal tradition	70
The radical tradition	72
The language is under attack!	76
The thought police are coming	76
Just what are you supposed to call them these days?	77
Naming and reclaiming	78
Political correctness and context	78
Summary	79
Extension activities	80

Unit five: Gender and speech styles

81

Introduction	81
Aim of this unit	82
Folklinguistics	82
A history of research on gender and speech styles	91
The 'so what?' criticism	93
The linguistic relativity criticism	94
The language context criticism	94
Linguistic developments	95
The cultural diversity criticism	95
From deficit to dominance: men behaving badly	95
From dominance to difference	97
After difference	99
So does difference really exist?	100
Summary	105
Extension activities	106
Commentaries/Answers to activities	109

Unit six: Discourses, identities and ideologies 111

Aims of this unit	111
What is a discourse?	111
Everyday talk is motivated	113
Invisible discourses, powerful practices	115
So what's the problem?	118
Prominence and dominance	120
Summary	121
Extension activities	122

Further reading	125
References	127
Index of terms	131