

CONTENTS

1 Introduction: Women's Scholarship Within and Outside the Academy, 1870–1960	1
Hilda L. Smith
Part I Women and the Medieval and Early Modern Economy	23
2 Ellen Annette McArthur: Establishing a Presence in the Academy	25
Amy Louise Erickson
3 Alice Clark's Critique of Capitalism	49
Tim Stretton
4 Julia Cherry Spruill, Historian of Southern Colonial Women	73
Anna Suranyi
Part II Politics and Citizenship in Early Modern Britain	89
5 "No Leisure for Myself": C.C. Stopes and British Freewomen	91
Hilda L. Smith

6	C. V. Wedgwood: The Historian and the World Melinda S. Zook	115
7	Caroline Robbins: An Anglo-American Historian Lois G. Schworer	137
Part III Women and Modern Politics		157
8	Arvède Barine: History, Modernity, and Feminism Whitney Walton	159
9	The Historian and the Empress: Isabel de Madariaga's Catherine the Great Willard Sunderland	181
10	Eleanor Flexner: Civil Rights and Feminist Activism and Writing M. Christine Anderson	195
Part IV Alternate Paths to Historical Scholarship		217
11	Women's Literary History in Late Eighteenth- and Nineteenth-Century France: Louise de Kéralio and Henriette Guizot de Witt Mihoko Suzuki	219
12	Ruth Benedict: An Anthropologist's Historical Writings Tracy Teslow	247
13	Nancy Mitford: Lessons for Historians from a Best- Selling Author Judith P. Zinsser	273

Part V Conclusion	297
14 Conclusion: Understanding Women Historians' Lives and Scholarly Reputations Both Within and Outside the Academy Bonnie G. Smith	299
Index	309