

Contents

List of Figures	ix
Preface	x
1 Introduction: The Puzzle of Central Europe	1
The emerging puzzle	1
The pivot of geopolitics?	6
Approaching Central Europe	7
2 Germany: Mitteleuropa – Realm of the German Nation	13
The narrative of German Central Europe	14
Shifting identities: from Germany to Central Europe	19
Nationalist dream or pragmatic customs union?	27
Friedrich Naumann and wartime concepts	31
Unsuccessful agitators vs. unimpressed government	37
A tale of wartime Mitteleuropa	40
Central Europe in German imperial policy	49
3 Austria-Hungary: Pan-German Paper Dreams	52
The legacy of 1848: Austria goes its own way	52
The pan-German movement	53
The Belvedere Circle	58
The pan-German revival	60
Central Europe the Austrian way	64
Challengers: from Kramář to Masaryk	70
A winding path to a dead end	78
Strength and weakness of the other	87
4 Britain and the United States: What the Enemy Covets	91
‘Seat of war’	91
Shifting threat perceptions	93

The Foreign Office and Masaryk's dismemberment plan	97
The view from across the Atlantic: the Inquiry	102
The stillborn mid-European Union of 1918	106
The construction of the other	109
5 Central Europe 1880–1918: Unsuccessful Exercises in Geopolitics	111
The battle for definition	111
Central Europe equals pan-German Europe	117
Central Europe in policy-makers' minds	122
Smart propaganda that failed	130
6 Variations in Time and Space	133
Interwar discourse: from Danubian Federation to Reich, 1919–39	133
World War II: return of the Middle Tier, 1939–45	147
Cold War: a non-existent concept, 1945–84	160
Breaking ice: the anti-politics of Central Europe, 1984–9	170
A brand new game: integration tautology, 1989–2004	179
The ebbs and flows of theorizing	192
7 Conclusions: Central Europe and Beyond	196
The forging of Central Europe	196
Central Europe is back. Again!	199
8 Postscript: Beyond Central Europe	201
Appendix 1 'Tshirschkey to Bethmann-Hollweg', 1 September 1914	203
Notes	209
Index	260