Martin Banwell

was born on November 24, 1954, in Lower Hutt, New Zealand. He studied chemistry at the Victoria University of Wellington, where he received his B.Sc. Honors (1st. class) in 1977 and his Ph.D. in Organic Chemistry under the guidance of B. Hutton in 1979. After a postdoctoral year with L. A. Paquette at the Ohio State University, Columbus, he returned to the University of Adelaide, South Australia, as a Senior Teaching Fellow at the Department of Organic Chemistry. From 1983 to 1994 he was Associate Professor and Reader at the University of Melbourne. Since 1999 he has been Professor at the Australian National University in Canberra.

Among his fellowships and awards are the Rennie Medal of the Royal Australian Chemical Institute (1986), the Greenacre Prize in Industrial Chemistry (1992), and the Humboldt Research Award of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation (2000). He was elected Fellow of the Royal Australian Chemical Institute in 1992, a Fellow of the Royal Society for the Promotion of Science in 1999, and an Honorary Fellow of the Royal Society of New Zealand in 2000. Moreover, he is a member of the Honorary Advisory Board of Synlett (since 1997), the International Advisory Editorial Board of the New Journal of Chemistry (since 1997), the Editorial Board of the Indian Journal of Chemistry, Section B (since 1999), and an Associate Editor of the Journal of the Chemical Society, Perkin Transactions 1 (since 1999) and of Methods in Organic Synthesis (since 1999).

He is author of approximately 150 papers in refereed journals; five patents have been issued to him.
