

Contents

Acknowledgments viii

1. Introduction: The Role and Context of the Criminal Justice System 1
 - The Primacy of the Criminal Justice System 3
 - Have Multiple Goals of the Criminal Justice System Led to a Loss of Clarity? 6
 - Why Changes Occurred 8

Part I: Context of the Problem 11

2. Defining and Measuring Domestic Violence and Its Impact 13
 - What Is Domestic Violence? 13
 - How Definitions Affect Measurement 14
 - How Widespread Is Domestic Violence?
 - The Problem of Conflicting Studies 17
 - What Is the Incidence of Domestic Violence? 20
 - The Impact of Domestic Violence 24
 - Is Stalking the Prototypical Offense in Dating Relationships? 28
3. Risk Markers for Offenders and Victims 31
 - Risk Markers for Batterers 31
 - Risk Markers for Families and Sociologically Based Theories of the Incidence of Domestic Violence 46
 - Risk Markers for Stalkers—A Specialized Profile 50
 - Risk Markers for Victims and the Phenomenon of Revictimization 53
4. Societal and Historical Factors in Domestic Violence 57
 - Does Society Create an Atmosphere Conducive to Domestic Violence? 57

Religious and Historical Precedents	57
The Context of Early American Strategies and Interventions	62
Does History Still Matter?	64

Part II: The Evolving Police Response 69

5. The Traditional Police Response and Early Innovations	71
The Traditional Approach: Minimal Intervention	71
Crisis Management	83
Does Police Intervention Help?	86
6. The Push for Criminal Justice Innovation	89
Political Pressure on the Criminal Justice System	89
The Role of Research in Forcing Change	91
Legal Liability As an Agent for Change	104
7. The Development of State and Federal Legislation	109
Domestic Violence-Related Laws	109
Specific Anti-Stalking Legislation	115
The Federal Legislative Response	120
8. The Increased Policy Preference for Arrest	125
The Evolution of Arrest Preferences	125
The Development of Mandatory Arrest Policies	126
The Limits and Costs of Mandatory Arrest	129
The Costs and Unintended Effects of Arrest	133
The Diversity of Victim Needs and Divergent Affects of Mandatory Arrest	138
9. Factors Affecting Police Response	143
Situational and Incident Characteristics	145
Police Evaluation of Victim Traits and Conduct	148
Assailant Behavior and Demeanor	151
Differences in Arrests Among Police Officers	152
Organizational Variations Among Police Departments	153
The Importance of Training	155
Domestic Violence in the Context of Community Policing	158
10. Variations in Police Response to Domestic and Nondomestic Assaults	163
Have There Been Changes in Street-Level Behavior?	163
How Closely Do Police Follow Proarrest Policies?	165
The Impact of Differential Police Interventions	172

Part III: What Happens After Arrest? The Role of the Prosecutors and the Courts 175

11. Classic Patterns of Nonintervention by the Prosecutors and Courts	177
The Victim's Experience	177
Unique Factors Limiting Effectiveness of Prosecutors	180
The Impact of Proarrest Practices: The Dilemma of Growing Caseloads	188
12. The Changing Prosecutorial Response	191
Victim Support and Victim Advocacy Programs Within Prosecutor Offices	191
No-Drop Policies	194
Victims Charged With Child Endangerment	203
Are There Alternate Models Empowering Victims That Prosecutors Can Follow?	205
Can Comprehensive Prosecutorial Programs Have an Impact on Domestic Violence? A Case Study	207
13. Judicial Innovations: Diversions From the Criminal Justice System	213
The Lack of a Coordinated Response From the Judiciary	213
Case Disposition by the Judiciary	214
Court-Sponsored Diversions	217
Court-Sponsored Mediation Programs	218
Batterer Intervention Programs	224
14. The Role of Restraining and Protective Orders	233
The Increasing Role of the Civil Courts	233
The Complex Problem of Reabuse	244
15. Innovations in Judicial Processing and Disposition	247
The Role of Specialized Domestic Violence Courts	247
Integrated Domestic Violence Case Management	252
Community Intervention Projects	255
Integrated Coordinating Councils	256
Do Integrated Programs Work?	258
References	265
Index	303
About the Authors	321