

Contents

Acknowledgement 11

Foreword 13

(Miroslav Verner)

Chapter I.

State of the Research on the Sun Temples 15

- I.1 Introduction. Aim of the research 15
- I.2 The first travelers and explorers 16
- I.3 The discovery of the sun temple of Niuserre. The beginning of the modern Egyptological discussion on the sun temples 20
- I.4 Current perspectives on the sun temples 22
- I.5 Sun temples, kingship and royal architecture 25
- I.6 Structure and methodology of the research 27

Chapter II.

Aspects of Royal Architecture and Ideology in the Early Dynastic Period and the Old Kingdom 31

- II.1 Introduction 31
- II.2 The Early Dynastic Period 31
- II.3 Netjerykhet and the Third Dynasty 35
- II.4 Snefru and the beginning of the Fourth Dynasty 38
- II.5 Khufu and the apex of the solar ideology 43
- II.6 Djedefre, Khafre and the Sphinx 45
- II.7 The late Fourth Dynasty 50
- II.8 Userkaf, the beginning of the Fifth Dynasty and the sun temples introduction 53
- II.9 The era of the Abusir Pyramids 55
 - II.9.1 Sahure: the establishment of the standard pyramid complex 56
 - II.9.2 Niuserre: a time of change and reassessment 59
- II.10 The end of the Fifth Dynasty 62
 - II.10.1 Djedkare and the dusk of the sun temples 63
 - II.10.2 Unis and the Pyramid Texts 64
- II.11 The Sixth Dynasty 68
- II.12 Provincial temples, hwt-k3 and the royal ideology 71

Chapter III.

The Sun Temples. Archaeology and Architecture 73

- III.1 Introduction 73
- III.2 The sun temple of Userkaf 74
 - III.2.1 The architectural layout 74
 - III.2.1.1 The valley temple 75
 - III.2.1.2 The causeway 77
 - III.2.1.3 The upper temple 77
 - III.2.2 Discussion on the sun temple of Userkaf 82
 - III.2.2.1 The shape of obelisk and its significance 82
 - III.2.2.2 History of the building phases 85
 - III.2.2.3 The cult in the valley temple 92
 - III.2.2.4 The name of the sun temple 96

III.2.3 Conclusions 97

III.3 The sun temple of Sahure 99

III.4 The sun temple of Neferirkare 104

III.5 The sun temple of Neferefre 112

III.6 The sun temple of Niuserre 113

III.6.1 Brief history of the exploration 113

III.6.2 The architectural layout 113

III.6.2.1 The valley temple 115

III.6.2.2 The causeway 117

III.6.2.3 The upper temple 118

III.6.3 The decorative program 130

III.6.3.1 The "Chapel" 131

III.6.3.1.1 The scenes repertoire 133

III.6.3.1.2 Analysis of the individual scenes 136

III.6.3.1.2.1 Rites preceding the festival 136

III.6.3.1.2.1.1 The foundation of the temple 136

III.6.3.1.2.1.2 The "Löwenmöbelfolge" 139

III.6.3.1.2.2 Performance of the festival 143

III.6.3.1.2.2.1 The "Homage Scenes" 144

III.6.3.1.2.2.2 The "Sequence of Min" 147

III.6.3.1.2.2.3 The "Ritual Run" 149

III.6.3.1.2.2.4 Presentation and allocation of cattle 153

III.6.3.1.2.2.5 The "Washing of the King's Feet" 153

III.6.3.1.2.3 Conclusion of the festival 155

III.6.3.1.2.3.1 The ceremony of "Bringing and Climbing
the Litter" 156

III.6.3.1.2.3.2 The final procession 160

III.6.3.1.3 The spatial arrangement of the Sed festival depiction 163

III.6.3.1.3.1 Preliminary remarks 163

III.6.3.1.3.2 The inner side of the eastern wall 169

III.6.3.1.3.3 The outer side of the eastern wall 172

III.6.3.1.3.4 The western wall 175

III.6.3.1.4 Conclusions 178

III.6.3.2 The southern corridor 181

III.6.3.2.1 Preliminary remarks 181

III.6.3.2.2 Peculiarities of the decoration 184

III.6.3.2.2.1 Figures of priests, priestesses and deities
at the Sed festival 184

III.6.3.2.2.2 Titles and iconography of the god Re 185

III.6.3.3 The "Room of the Seasons" 188

III.6.3.3.1 Overview of the decoration 188

III.6.3.3.2 The ideological meaning of the decoration 195

III.6.3.4 The other parts of the temple 198

III.6.4 The textual program 200

III.6.4.1 The inscriptions of the upper temple 200

III.6.4.2 The inscriptions of the valley temple 201

III.6.4.2.1 The king's building activities and the furnishing of the temple 203

III.6.4.2.2 The feasts calendar 205

III.6.5 The Statuary 210

III.6.6 Discussion on the sun temple of Niuserre 213

III.6.6.1 The shape of the obelisk and its significance 214

III.6.6.2 The granite stelae at the entrance of the "Chapel" 222

III.6.6.3 The altar 223

III.6.6.4 The storerooms 231

III.6.6.5 The slaughterhouses 234

III.6.6.6 The solar boat	242
III.6.6.7 The decorative program	243
III.6.7 Conclusions	247
III.7 The sun temple of Menkauhor	249
III.8 The topography of the sun temples	252
III.8.1 Userkaf and the foundation of the royal cemetery	252
III.8.2 The missing sun temples	257
III.9 Conclusions. Archaeology and architecture of the sun temples	261

Chapter IV.

The Sun Temples Personnel and the Textual Sources 265

IV.1 Titles and their categorization. The structure of the Egyptian Administration	265
IV.2 The sources used	266
IV.3 The personnel of the sun temples in the private sources	268
IV.4 The personnel of the sun temples in the glyptic evidence	274
IV.5 Considerations on the titles of the sun temple personnel	275
IV.6 A glance forward. The dusk of the sun temples and the new titles arrangement	281
IV.7 Titles, economy and the royal cult	284
IV.8 The dating of Old Kingdom tombs. The sun temples contribution	289
IV.8.1 Introduction	289
IV.8.2 Prosopography and the king's cartouche	290
IV.8.3 The tombs of the sun temple personnel. Some topographical notes	293
IV.9 Conclusions. The sun temples personnel and the textual sources	295

Chapter V.

Corpus of the Evidence 299

V.1 Catalogue of textual attestation of sun temples in private mastabas	299
V.2 Catalogue of textual attestation of sun temples in sealings	399
V.3 Catalogue of textual attestation of sun temples in other sources	440

Chapter VI.

Conclusions 461

VI.1 The meaning of the sun temples in the evolution of the royal ideology	461
--	-----

Excursus

A. Politics and religion: the background for the introduction of the sun temples	469
B. Heliopolis, the solar cult and the sun temples	477
C. Osiris, the Pyramid Texts and the disappearance of the sun temples	490

Bibliography 505

Tables 535

List of Sheets 550

Indexes 551