

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	xiv
Acknowledgements	xix
World View	xx
Preface to the Third Revised and Expanded Edition	xxvii
Introduction	xxx

PART 1 ELEMENTS OF SCENOGRAPHY

1 Space	3
Measure to Measure: Playing in the Space	3
Artistic Occupation	10
Community	10
A Game of Size and Scale	11
Instant History	13
A Perfect Piece of Theatre	13
A Neutral Machine	14
Describing Space	17
Site Specifics	19
Space and Sound	19
Using Space – A Warning	20
Recycling a Space	22
Models	23
The Effect of Space	24
Assisting the Performance	24
The History of a Space	25

2 Text	31
The Hidden Story	31
Understanding the Play	32
Visualizing the Drama	33
Peopling the Play	36
Thinking Drawings – A Useful Tool	37
The Scenographic Script	38
Hidden Stories	39
Visual Clues	40
Survey the Plot	42
Scenographic Dramaturgy	46
Liberating the Text	47
Wordspace	49
Representing History	49
The Look of Words	50
A Richness for the Audience's Eyes	51
Hidden Space within Words	52
Collaboration	54
The Imagery of Art	55
3 Research	59
Asking Questions – Finding Answers	59
Forgotten Memories	59
Creative Research	60
The Mood of the Moment	61
A Living Museum	62
Observing Life	64
Expressing the Subtext	65
Found Images and References	68
Cross-referencing and Recycling	71
Knowing When to Stop	72
The Mystery of Things (Fernando Pessoa)	75
Primary Research	75
Patchwork Quilts of Memories	77
Creative Research	77
Everyday Objects	79

Visual Dramaturgy	80
A Scenographic Language	81
4 Colour and Composition	83
The Balancing Act	83
A Colour Scale	84
An Emotional Palette	85
Colour and Texture	86
A Piece of Green String	86
Composing with Colour and Form	90
The Beauty of the Ordinary	92
Critical Awareness	93
Playing with Paint and Colour	94
Less is More	95
A Carousel of Memories	95
Poetic Realism	97
Colour and Composition	98
The Dynamism of Space	99
Consistent Practice	100
The Logic of Colour	101
Directing the Spectator's Eye	103
The Thrill of Composition	104
Flexible Surfaces	104
Focusing Attention	105
Scale and Impact	106
Made by Hand	107
5 Direction	111
Finding the Way	111
Making the Space Speak	113
Pragmatics	113
The Architect of the Dramatic Space	116
Credit Where it's Due	117
Common Ground	118
Animating the Space – Together	118
Mise en scène	120

Coming into the Picture	121
Enhancing the Text	122
Text and Action	123
Telling the Story with Costume and Text	124
Travelling in the Same Direction	128
The Art of Direction	131
Interchangeable Roles	134
The Creative Vision	135
A Theatre for Looking at Things	136
Allowing the Unexpected to Happen	137
6 Performers	141
The Scenographic Actor	141
The First Day of Rehearsal	142
Language	144
Do your Homework	145
Observations from Life	146
Working Interculturally	147
The Body	147
The Language of Clothes	148
Making the Costume	151
The Actor's Imprint	152
Fabric	152
The Costumed Actor in the Empty Space	153
Practical and Poetic	154
Using the Space	155
The Body in Three Dimensions	158
The Raw Material	160
The Human Form	161
Understanding Performers	162
A Two-way Process	164
The World of the Character Made Manifest	165
A Performative Language	167
Simple Images	168
A Hunger for the Intimate	169
The Performer is the Bridge	169

7 Spectators	171
The Great Mystery	171
Studying the Audience	172
Educating the Audience	172
The Missing Ingredient	173
Creating the Conditions for Concentration	174
Taking Care to Prepare	176
A Joint Adventure	178
A Visual Narrator	179
Danger	179
Not Play Acting	182
Space as Metaphor	182
Scenic Invention	184
A Feast of Delights	187
The Active Ingredient	187
Sustainable Staging	188
Form and Content in Harmony	189
‘Real life’ Reflected?	191
The Audience’s Imagination	193
Memory and Recognition	193
Using Realism to Create Mystery	195
Leaving Room for the Spectator	196
Spectator as Participant	196

PART 2 INVESTIGATIONS

8 Charlotte: A Tri-Coloured Play with Music	201
Introduction: When Life and Art Meet	202
Space: Behind the Tracing Paper	203
Text: Memory? or Truth?	207
Research: The Living Museum for Charlotte: A Tri-Coloured Play with Music	209
Performers and Direction	214
Colour and Composition: The Tri-Coloured World of Charlotte Salomon	224
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	228
Spectators: On Entering the House of Theatre	228

9	Carmen	231
	Ljubljana 2015	231
	Text: Text–Sound–Colour	234
	Research	237
	SCENO-MANI-FESTO	241
	Colour and Composition: Making the Mark	242
	Responding to the Material	243
	Direction: Cooking and Dreaming	244
	Performers	246
	SCENO-MANI-FESTO	249
	Staging Delacroix's La Liberté	249
	Spectators: Expectations	251
	SCENO-MANI-FESTO	254
10	The Excursions of Mr Brouček	255
	Staging Brouček : The World Premiere of Výlet pana Broučka do Měsíce by Leoš Janáček	255
	Space	256
	Text and Music	256
	Research: Cycles, Cars and Barrows – and Pork Sausages!	259
	SCENO-MANI-FESTO	267
	Colour and Composition	267
	Performers	269
	Spectators: The Progressive Experience	272
	Conclusion	274
	Direction	277
	SCENO-MANI-FESTO	279
11	Šarlatán	281
	Staging Pavel Haas's opera Šarlatán (1938)	281
	Overture	281
	Exposition	282
	Performers	288
	The Big Problem	290
	Development: Nettles and Potatoes	292
	Space: Leading the Audience's Eye	294
	SCENO-MANI-FESTO	299

The Scenographic Spectator	300
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	304
Finale: To our Maestro Israel Yinon	304
And ... to our Poet Sandy Hutchison	305
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	306
12 The New Jerusalem	307
Traversing the Space	307
Connecting Word and Vision	310
Research: Finding the Way	317
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	321
Colour and Composition: The Joy of Pen and Ink	321
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	324
Direction: Parallel Paths	324
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	326
Performers	326
Spectators: The Scenic Spectator	328
SCENO-MANI-FESTO	330
Afterword	332
Postscript	339
Index	341