

Contents

List of figures	ix
List of contributors	x
Acknowledgements	xiv
Foreword by Michele Moore	xv
 Introduction	 1
FELICITY ARMSTRONG AND DIANA TSOKOVA
1 Social Constructivism and Action Research: transforming teaching and learning through collaborative practice	5
FELICITY ARMSTRONG
2 Voices of the unheard: dialogues with mainstream primary school teachers of students with visual impairments in Grenada	17
DHANA LAZARUS
3 Listening to students' voices to build an inclusive school with deaf students in Saudi Arabia	31
ABEER ALASIRY
4 Scaffolding friendships and social relationships in a primary school in England	43
PREETI VARGHESE
5 Developing positive social interactions among children in a Danish preschool	57
MARIA JOSÉ ALVAREZ-MIRANDA

6	"The art of making friends": encouraging dialogue and active participation in an early years classroom in Greece	67
	ANDROMACHI POPI
7	Promoting inclusive actions beyond classrooms in an Institute of Higher Learning in Singapore	77
	WAI SUM WILKSON LAM
8	A Social Constructivist approach to teaching poetry with Year 8 in England	88
	JESSICA GREENHAM
9	Encouraging the inclusivity of international students in Singapore through the literature curriculum	102
	ERIN WOODFORD
10	A collaborative Action Research project within a data-driven culture: improving teaching and learning through Social Constructivism in England	113
	SARAH WAKEFIELD
11	Changing perceptions of teachers in special needs education in Ireland using the mainstream science curriculum to encourage inclusive education	124
	THERESE LEAHY
12	'Supporting' young people identified as having a special educational need in their work experience in England: critical reflections	136
	HANNAH D'AGUIAR
13	From homework to home learning: creating and implementing a non-traditional homework policy in an international school in London	146
	MARIA ELIZABETH ARRARTE
14	Creating a culture of dialogue and transparency with parents and teachers in a primary school in Germany	157
	LISA SIMONE PFAFFENRATH
	Index	168