

Brief Contents

How to use this book	xxii
How to use the online resources	xxiv
About the Editors	xxv
About the Contributors	xxvi
I Introduction	I
Christian Welzel, Ronald Inglehart, Patrick Bernhagen, and Christian W. Haerpfer
<hr/>
PART ONE Theoretical and Historical Perspectives	19
2 Theories of Democratization	21
Christian Welzel
3 Democratic and Undemocratic States	40
Richard Rose
4 Measuring Democracy and Democratization	52
Patrick Bernhagen
5 Long Waves and Conjunctures of Democratization	67
Dirk Berg-Schlosser
6 The Global Wave of Democratization	82
John Markoff and Daniel Burridge
<hr/>
PART TWO Causes and Dimensions of Democratization	101
7 The International Context	103
Hakan Yilmaz
8 The Political Economy of Democracy	119
Patrick Bernhagen
9 Political Culture, Mass Beliefs, and Value Change	134
Christian Welzel and Ronald F. Inglehart
10 Gender and Democratization	158
Pamela Paxton and Kristopher Velasco

11	Social Capital and Civil Society	171
	Natalia Letki
12	Social Movements and Contention in Democratization Processes	182
	Federico M. Rossi and Donatella della Porta
<hr/> PART THREE Actors and Institutions		195
13	Conventional Citizen Participation	197
	Ian McAllister and Stephen White
14	Political Parties	212
	Leonardo Morlino
15	Institutional Design in New Democracies	228
	Matthijs Bogaards
16	The Media	239
	Katrin Voltmer and Gary Rawnsley
17	Social Media	253
	Larry Diamond and Zak Whittington
18	A Decade of Democratic Decline and Stagnation	267
	Laura Jakli, M. Steven Fish, and Jason Wittenberg
<hr/> PART FOUR Regions of Democratization		283
19	Southern Europe	285
	Richard Gunther
20	Latin America	305
	Andrea Oelsner and Mervyn Bain
21	Post-Communist Central and Eastern Europe	322
	Christian W. Haerpfer and Kseniya Kizilova
22	Post-Soviet Eurasia	341
	Christian W. Haerpfer and Kseniya Kizilova
23	The Middle East and North Africa	364
	Francesco Cavatorta
24	Sub-Saharan Africa	384
	Michael Bratton
25	East Asia	401
	Doh Chull Shin and Rollin F. Tusalem

---

PART FIVE	Conclusions and Outlook	421
26	Conclusion: The Future of Democratization	423
	Christian Welzel, Ronald Inglehart, Patrick Bernhagen, and Christian W. Haerpfer
	Glossary	432
	Bibliography	440
	Index	476

Detailed Contents

How to use this book	xxii
How to use the online resources	xxiv
About the Editors	xxv
About the Contributors	xxvi

I Introduction	I
Christian Welzel, Ronald Inglehart, Patrick Bernhangen, and Christian W. Haerpfer
The New Pessimism about Democracy	I
A New Look at Democracy	2
Re-Examining the Centennial Democratic Trend: A Reversal?	2
Democracy's Persistent Culture-Boundedness	3
Democracy's Societal Pre-Conditions	7
Global Support for Democracy—A False Standard	10
Economic Inequality as Democracy's Key Challenge	14
The Value of Democracy	15
Plan of the Book	16

---

PART ONE Theoretical and Historical Perspectives 19

2 Theories of Democratization	21
Christian Welzel
Introduction	22
The Nature of Democracy	22
Ancient Democracy	23
The 'Cool Water' Origin of the West's Emancipatory Dynamic	24
The Principle of Representation	24
The West-East, North-South Gradient	25
Rent-Seeking States	25
Patterns of Colonialism	27
Industrialization and Class Divisions	27
Ethnic and Religious Cleavages	29
Socioeconomic Modernization	29
International Conflicts and Regime Alliances	30
Elite Pacts and Mass Mobilization	31
State Repression and Grassroots Pressures	32
The Role of Emancipative Values	32

Elite Concessions versus Pressures from Below	33
Institutional Configurations	34
The Emancipatory Path to Sustainable Democracy	35
A Typology of Democratization Processes	36
Conclusion	36
3 Democratic and Undemocratic States	40
Richard Rose
Introduction	41
Defining Democratic States	41
The state as the starting point	41
The characteristics of a democratic state	42
The State of States Today	43
Different kinds of accountable democracies	44
Different kinds of undemocratic states	45
Most regimes are incompletely democratic or autocratic	45
Evolution, False Starts, and Democratization Backwards	47
Getting rid of tangible evils	47
Dynamics of Democratic and Undemocratic States	48
Dynamics of democratic regimes	49
Dynamics of constitutional autocracy	49
Dynamics of plebiscitarian autocracy	50
Dynamics of unaccountable autocracy	50
Conclusion	50
4 Measuring Democracy and Democratization	52
Patrick Bernhagen
Introduction	53
Is Democracy a Matter of Degree?	53
Conceptualizing democracy	53
Sortal versus scalar concepts of democracy	54
Dimensions and Indicators of Democracy	56
Dimensions of democracy	56
Indicators of democracy	57
Aggregating dimensions and indicators into scales	58
The global wave of democratization according to the four major indices	61
Hybrid Regimes and Sub-Types of Democracy	63
Conclusion	64
5 Long Waves and Conjunctures of Democratization	67
Dirk Berg-Schlosser
Introduction	67
The Overall Picture	69
The First Long Wave, 1776–1914	71
The first positive conjuncture, 1918/19	72

The Second 'Long Wave' (with some Intermittent Turbulences), 1945–88	74
The Latest Conjuncture, 1989/90	75
A Period of Uncertainty	76
Conclusion	79
6 The Global Wave of Democratization	82
John Markoff and Daniel Burrige<sup>1</sup>
Introduction	83
Democracy Ascending	83
National, Regional, and Global Processes	88
Mediterranean Europe, 1970s	89
Latin America, 1980s and early 1990s	89
Soviet/communist bloc, 1989 and beyond	91
Asia, 1980s and 1990s	92
Africa, early 1990s	93
Middle East and North Africa	94
Beyond the Global Wave	95
Into the twenty-first century	96

---

PART TWO Causes and Dimensions of Democratization 101

7 The International Context	103
Hakan Yilmaz
Introduction	103
The International Context of Democratization: Theoretical Approaches	104
Democracy Promotion Strategies of the USA and the European Union	106
Democracy promotion by the USA	107
Democracy promotion by the EU	110
Globalization, Global Civil Society, and Democratization	112
Conclusion	114
8 The Political Economy of Democracy	119
Patrick Bernhagen
Introduction	119
Economic and Political Development	121
What Capitalism Does for Democracy	123
What Democracy Does for Capitalism	126
The Role of Business Actors in Democratic Transition	128
Politico-Economic Reform	130
Reforming systems based on import substitution industrialization	130
Reforming systems with a history of export-led development	131
Reforming collectivist economies	131
Reforming rentier states	131
Conclusion	132

9	Political Culture, Mass Beliefs, and Value Change	134
	Christian Welzel and Ronald F. Inglehart
	Introduction	134
	Mass Beliefs—The Missing Link between Structure and Action	135
	The Centrality of Emancipative Values	136
	Measuring Emancipative Values	137
	The Importance of Regime Legitimacy	138
	The Emancipatory Impulse of Action Resources	140
	Some Key Qualifications	142
	The ‘Tectonic Model’ of Regime Change	143
	Updated Evidence	145
	Conclusion	154
10	Gender and Democratization	158
	Pamela Paxton and Kristopher Velasco
	Introduction	158
	Gender in Definitions of Democracy	159
	Women’s Democratic Representation: Formal, Descriptive, Substantive, and Symbolic Representation	161
	Women’s Suffrage as an Aspect of Democratization	163
	Women’s Representation as an Aspect of Democracy	165
	Women and Democratization Movements	167
	Conclusion	168
11	Social Capital and Civil Society	171
	Natalia Letki
	Introduction	172
	Defining Civil Society and Social Capital	172
	Civil Society and Social Capital in Democratization	173
	Networks as sources of information	174
	Associations as schools of democracy	175
	Trust and democracy	175
	Reprise	176
	Paradoxes of Civil Society and Social Capital in New Democracies	176
	Are civil society and social capital necessary for democratization?	176
	‘Civil society against the state’?	177
	Social capital, civil society, and democracy: what comes first?	177
	Are all forms of social capital conducive for democracies?	177
	Civil Society, Social Capital, and Democracy: the Western Perspective?	178
	Conclusion	179
12	Social Movements and Contention in Democratization Processes	182
	Federico M. Rossi and Donatella della Porta
	Introduction	183
	Social Movements in Research on Democratization	183
	Structural approaches: modernization theory and historical class perspective	183

9	Political Culture, Mass Beliefs, and Value Change	134
	Christian Welzel and Ronald F. Inglehart
	Introduction	134
	Mass Beliefs—The Missing Link between Structure and Action	135
	The Centrality of Emancipative Values	136
	Measuring Emancipative Values	137
	The Importance of Regime Legitimacy	138
	The Emancipatory Impulse of Action Resources	140
	Some Key Qualifications	142
	The ‘Tectonic Model’ of Regime Change	143
	Updated Evidence	145
	Conclusion	154
10	Gender and Democratization	158
	Pamela Paxton and Kristopher Velasco
	Introduction	158
	Gender in Definitions of Democracy	159
	Women’s Democratic Representation: Formal, Descriptive, Substantive, and Symbolic Representation	161
	Women’s Suffrage as an Aspect of Democratization	163
	Women’s Representation as an Aspect of Democracy	165
	Women and Democratization Movements	167
	Conclusion	168
11	Social Capital and Civil Society	171
	Natalia Letki
	Introduction	172
	Defining Civil Society and Social Capital	172
	Civil Society and Social Capital in Democratization	173
	Networks as sources of information	174
	Associations as schools of democracy	175
	Trust and democracy	175
	Reprise	176
	Paradoxes of Civil Society and Social Capital in New Democracies	176
	Are civil society and social capital necessary for democratization?	176
	‘Civil society against the state’?	177
	Social capital, civil society, and democracy: what comes first?	177
	Are all forms of social capital conducive for democracies?	177
	Civil Society, Social Capital, and Democracy: the Western Perspective?	178
	Conclusion	179
12	Social Movements and Contention in Democratization Processes	182
	Federico M. Rossi and Donatella della Porta
	Introduction	183
	Social Movements in Research on Democratization	183
	Structural approaches: modernization theory and historical class perspective	183

Elite transactional process approach: transitology	184
The Role of 'Democratization from Below': Perspectives from Social Movement Studies	186
Cycles of protest and waves of strikes during democratization	187
Resistance to the non-democratic regime	188
Liberalization and the upsurge of mobilization	189
Transition to procedural democracy	190
Consolidation of a procedural (or substantive?) democracy	191
Expansion to post-representative democracy	191
Conclusion	192
<hr/>
PART THREE Actors and Institutions	195
13 Conventional Citizen Participation	197
Ian McAllister and Stephen White
Introduction	197
Dimensions of Political Participation	198
Election Turnout	201
Institutions and Political Participation	204
Citizens and Political Participation	205
Political Participation and its Consequences	208
Conclusion	209
14 Political Parties	212
Leonardo Morlino
Introduction: Parties as an Essential Component of Democracy	213
Are Parties the Key Actors of Transition? Are there Alternative Actors?	215
Variations in transitions to democracy	215
Elite continuity, party continuity, and elite and party discontinuity	217
International and external factors	218
Party role in democratic transition	219
How do Parties Anchor a Democracy?	220
Electoral stabilization	220
The establishment of definite patterns of partisan competition	220
Stabilization of party leadership	221
Legitimation	221
Anchoring	222
Interaction between legitimation and anchoring	223
When do Parties Fail?	224
Conclusion	225
15 Institutional Design in New Democracies	228
Matthijs Bogaards
Institutions and Institutional Design	228
Institutional Choices	229
President and Parliaments	230

Duverger's and Sartori's Electoral Laws	231
Parties and Party Systems	232
The Evidence from New Democracies	233
Electoral System Design and Ethnic Conflict Management	235
Conclusion	237
16 The Media	239
Katrin Voltmer and Gary Rawnsley
Introduction	240
Media and Democracy: Normative Foundations	240
Media and the Dynamics of Regime Change	241
International broadcasting and the demonstration effect	241
Communication technologies and the convergence between 'old' and 'new' media	243
Democratizing the Media	244
Media-state relationships	245
Media regulation and media laws	245
The ambivalence of press freedom	246
The Media and the Market	247
Media after communism: Central and Eastern Europe	247
Media after capitalist dictatorship: Latin America and Asia	248
Post-colonial media: Africa	248
Media and the Quality of New Democracies	249
Conclusion	250
17 Social Media	253
Larry Diamond and Zak Whittington
Introduction	254
Social Media as Information Channels	255
Online news and opinion	255
Information crowdsourcing and government transparency	256
Social Media as Organizing Tools	257
Protest mobilization	257
The value and limits of social media in driving democratic change	259
The Empire Strikes Back: Digital Censorship and Repression	261
Conclusion	263
18 A Decade of Democratic Decline and Stagnation	267
Laura Jakli, M. Steven Fish, and Jason Wittenberg
Introduction	267
Theory and Central Concepts	268
Measuring Democracy	269
Democratic Stagnation	271
What Undermines Democracy?	272
The Limits of Explanations Based on Structural Factors	276
Agents of Democratic Failure	278

Strengthening Legislatures and Curtailing Executive Power	280
Altering the Structural Factors	280
Conclusion	281

---

PART FOUR Regions of Democratization 283

19 Southern Europe	285
Richard Gunther
Introduction	286
Portugal	286
First transition to democracy	286
Second transition to democracy	287
Reasons for democratic transition	287
Greece	289
The Cyprus conflict as trigger of transition	289
The role of Karamanlis in transition	290
Founding elections and first democratic government	291
Spain	292
Elite pact as main feature of transition	292
Backward legitimacy	292
The new democratic constitution	293
Politics of consensus	294
Explaining Democratization in Southern Europe	296
The international context	296
Business and the economy	297
Social movements	298
Actors: the role of elite pacts	299
Conclusion	300
Epilogue	302
20 Latin America	305
Andrea Oelsner and Mervyn Bain
Introduction	306
Historical Overview	306
The historical impact of the Cuban Revolution	307
Argentina	307
Chile	307
Mexico	308
Venezuela	308
The International Context	309
Economic Factors	311
Political Culture and Society	312
Political Parties and Social Movements	315
Institutional Challenges	317
Conclusion	320

21	Post-Communist Central and Eastern Europe	322
	Christian W. Haerpfer and Kseniya Kizilova
	Introduction	323
	Stage One: Failed Reforms and the Decline of Communist Regimes, 1968–88	324
	Stage Two: The End of Communist Political Regimes, 1989–91	326
	Stage Three: The Creation of New Democracies	326
	From New Democracies towards Consolidated Democracies	327
	From New Democracies towards Electoral Democracies	332
	From New Democracies towards Emerging Democracies	336
	Conclusion	338
22	Post-Soviet Eurasia	341
	Christian W. Haerpfer and Kseniya Kizilova
	Introduction	342
	Decline of the Soviet Union 1985–91	343
	The End of the Soviet Union in 1991	344
	The Creation of New Political Systems of the Russian Federation and the Newly Independent States	345
	From Soviet Republics towards Consolidated Democracies	347
	From Soviet Republics towards Electoral Democracies	349
	Georgia	349
	Moldova	351
	Ukraine	352
	Kyrgyzstan	353
	From Soviet Republics towards Electoral Autocracies	354
	Russia	354
	Armenia	356
	Azerbaijan	356
	Belarus	357
	Kazakhstan	358
	Tajikistan	358
	From Soviet Republics towards Full Autocracies	359
	Uzbekistan	359
	Turkmenistan	360
	Conclusion	361
23	The Middle East and North Africa	364
	Francesco Cavatorta
	Introduction	365
	Authoritarian Persistence in the Arab World	367
	The International Context	370
	The role of Islamist political actors	371
	Political Culture and Society	373
	Business and the Economy	376
	Agents of Democratization and Democratic Failure	378
	Weak multi-party systems under state control	379

Challenges	380
Conclusion	381
24 Sub-Saharan Africa	384
Michael Bratton
Introduction	385
Africa's Democratic Wave	386
A period of transition	386
Features of transition	386
Key Cases of Regime Transition	388
South Africa	388
Ghana	389
Nigeria	390
Zimbabwe	391
Explanatory Factors	391
International influences	391
Economic conditions	392
Political culture and society	392
The roles of political actors	393
Conjuncture and causality	394
Institutional Challenges	394
Elections	395
Political parties	395
Civil society	396
Legislatures and courts	396
Conclusion	397
25 East Asia	401
Doh Chull Shin and Rollin F. Tusalem*
Introduction	402
East Asia as a Region of Democratization	402
Democratic Transition	405
Modes of democratic regime change	405
The Philippines	407
South Korea	407
Taiwan	408
Thailand	408
Mongolia	409
Cambodia	409
Indonesia	410
Causes of democratic transitions	411
Substantive Democratization	412
Democratic governance	412
Prospects of Democratization in China	414
Conclusion	417

---

PART FIVE	Conclusions and Outlook	421
26	Conclusion: The Future of Democratization	423
	Christian Welzel, Ronald Inglehart, Patrick Bernhagen, and Christian W. Haerpfer
	Introduction	423
	Tactics and Strategies	424
	Varieties of Autocracy	425
	Development	426
	External Threats and Group Hostilities	427
	An Evolutionary Perspective	427
	The Democratic Agenda of the Future	429
	Spreading Democracy to New Regions	429
	Consolidating and Improving New Democracies	430
	Deepening Old Democracies	430
	Glossary	432
	Bibliography	440
	Index	476