

Contents

List of Figures	x
List of Tables	xi
Acknowledgements	xii
1 Introduction	1
Defining 'political party'	4
The three faces of party organisations	7
The structure of parties	9
The role of parties in democratic states	14
The crisis of parties	16
Outline of the book	19
2 Party Systems	21
The importance of understanding party systems	21
Early approaches to party systems	25
Party system typologies	27
The effective number of parties	33
Explaining party system variation	36
Which party system is best?	40
Conclusion	42
3 Theories of Party Development	43
The 'internal' and 'external' origins of parties	43
An alternative view of the emergence of political parties	47
Understanding party types	50
Cadre parties to mass parties	50
Challenging the mass party model: the catch-all party	52
Organisational consequences of the catch-all party:
the electoral-professional party model	53
The cartel party	57
Conclusion: Beyond the cartel – beyond party types?	58
4 Ideology	60
On ideology and party politics	60
Political cleavages	64
Party families	67

Ideology in contemporary European party politics	70
Party ideology beyond Europe	76
United States	76
India	79
Africa	81
Conclusion	82
5 Party Members, Activists and Supporters	84
Defining party member, activist and supporter	85
The rise (and fall?) of party members	88
Why members?	91
Party membership incentives: supply	92
Leadership incentives: demand	94
The costs of a membership organisation	97
Explaining and reversing decline	99
The effects of membership decline	100
Conclusion	101
6 Candidate Selection	103
The importance of candidate selection	103
Selecting candidates	005
The political system	106
National legislation	108
The candidate selection process: impact of different methods	112
Territorial (de-) centralisation and in/exclusiveness of the selectorate	113
Supply and demand	118
Supply	119
Demand	121
Conclusion	123
7 Policy Making	124
Who should be involved?	124
The normative argument against intra-party democracy	125
The normative argument for intra-party democracy	126
Pragmatic arguments against intra-party democracy	130
Pragmatic argument for intra-party democracy	132
Who can be involved in policy making?	133
Who wants to be involved in policy making?	136
Who are involved in policy making?	137
Conclusion	141

8 Campaigning	142
How campaigning has changed	142
First era	144
Second Era	145
Third Era	147
The limits of change	149
Drivers of change	153
Social changes	153
Technological change	154
Party-specific issues	155
Impact of changes	157
Financing	158
Conclusion	161
9 Government	162
Deciding to aim for government office	162
Getting into government – coalitions	169
Factors impacting on coalition formation	173
Portfolio allocation	175
Conclusion	176
10 The Internationalisation of Party Politics	178
Party Internationals	178
The First, Second, Fourth and Socialist Internationals	179
The Liberal International	180
International Democratic Union	181
Communist International (Comintern)	181
Europarties	185
The Development of Europarties	185
Limits to the development of Europarties	189
Parties and globalization	194
The internationalisation of campaign consultancy	197
Conclusion	199
11 The Future of Party Politics	201
Future direction in the study of political parties	201
Are parties in crisis?	205
Bibliography	208
Index	221