

Contents

Author biographies	ix
Acknowledgements	xii
Introduction	1
LEWIS ARON, SUE GRAND, AND JOYCE SLOCHOWER
1. Going too far: relational heroines and relational excess	8
JOYCE SLOCHOWER
2. The emergence of the relational tradition: Lewis Aron interviews Jay Greenberg	35
JAY GREENBERG AND LEWIS ARON
3. Relational psychoanalysis and its discontents	63
EMANUEL BERMAN
4. Forms of equality in relational psychoanalysis	80
DAVID MARK
5. Needed analytic relationships and the disproportionate relational focus on enactments	102
STEVEN STERN
6. Inaction and puzzlement as interaction: keeping attention in mind	132
STEPHEN SELIGMAN

7. The analyst's private space: spontaneity, ritual, psychotherapeutic action, and self-care 150
KEN CORBETT

8. The unobtrusive relational analyst and psychoanalytic companionship 167
ROBERT GROSSMARK

9. The things we carry: finding/creating the object and the analyst's self-reflective participation 191
STEVEN H. COOPER

10. Relational theory in socio-historical context:
implications for technique 209
LYNNE LAYTON

Index

Index 235