

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction to the Revised Edition	xi
Introduction	xv
Part I Towards a Sociological Theory of Pedagogy
Chapter 1 Pedagogic Codes and Their Modalities of Practice	3
Chapter 2 The Pedagogic Device	25
Chapter 3 Pedagogising Knowledge: Studies in Recontextualising	41
Chapter 4 Official Knowledge and Pedagogic Identities: The Politics of Recontextualisation	65
Chapter 5 Thoughts on the Trivium and Qhadrivium: The Divorce of Knowledge from the Knower	81
Part II Theory and Research
Chapter 6 Codes and Research	89
Chapter 7 Research and Languages of Description	131
Part III Critique and Response
Chapter 8 Sociolinguistics: A Personal View	145
Chapter 9 Vertical and Horizontal Discourse: An Essay	155
Chapter 10 Codes and Their Positioning: A Case Study in Misrecognition	175

Postscript

Chapter 11	Bernstein Interviewed	197
Bibliography		215
Index		223
About the Author		230

Contents

ix	Acknowledgments
xi	Introduction to the Revised Edition
xv	Introduction
	Part I: Towards a Sociological Theory of Pedagogy
3	Chapter 1: Pedagogic Codes and Their Modalities of Practice
23	Chapter 2: The Pedagogic Device
41	Chapter 3: Pedagogising Knowledge: Studies in Recontextualising
63	Chapter 4: Official Knowledge and Pedagogic Ideologies: The Politics of Recontextualisation
81	Chapter 5: Thoughts on the Trivial and the Significant: The Division of Knowledge from the Knower
	Part II: Theory and Research
89	Chapter 6: Codes and Research
131	Chapter 7: Research and Languages of Description
	Part III: Critique and Response
143	Chapter 8: Sociologising: A Personal View
153	Chapter 9: Vertical and Horizontal Dissonance: An Essay
173	Chapter 10: Codes and Their Positioning: A Case Study in Misrecognition	