

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
PART I
Friendship	15
1 Repeatable Reasons, Irreplaceable Friends	17
2 What Shared Identity Means in Friendship	37
3 Why Bad People Can't Be Good Friends	56
PART II
Robots	71
4 False Friends and False Coinage: A Tool for Navigating the Ethics of Sociable Robots	73
5 What's Wrong With Robot "Friends" for Lonely Seniors?	90
6 Counterfeit Currency Versus Monopoly Money: Using Appearances to Build Capacities	103
7 Should You Buy Yourself a "Friend"? Ethics of Consumer Markets for Robot Companions	117
PART III
Social Media	137
8 Humans Aren't Cows: An Aristotelian Defense of Technologically Mediated Friendship	139

vi Contents

9 Taking Control of Conversations Through Technologically Mediated Communication	162
10 What Words Can't Say: Emoji and Other Non-Verbal Elements of Technologically Mediated Communication	178
11 The Moral Import of Medium	196
Conclusion	220
Index	225