

Foreword	Henri-Jean Martin	7
Preface	Lucien Febvre	9
Manuscripts	Marcel Thomas	15
1. Preliminaries: The Introduction of Paper into Europe		29
1. The Progress of Paper		30
2. Preconditions of the Growth of Paper-Making: Natural and Industrial		33
3. Commercial Factors		37
4. The Coming of Printing and the Development of the Paper Industry		39
2. The Technical Problems and their Solution		45
1. The Wood-Cut, Ancestor of the Book?		45
2. The 'Discovery' of Printing		49
3. The Making of the Type		56
4. Composition and Impression		61
5. Imposition		68
6. The Chinese Precedent		71
3. The Book: Its Visual Appearance		77
1. Type Founts		78
2. Inside the Book: Title Page, Colophon and Printer's Mark		83
3. The Text and Format of the Book		87
4. Illustration		90
5. Clothing the Book: The Binding		104
4. The Book as a Commodity		109
1. Costs		109
2. The Problem of Finance		115
5. The Little World of the Book		128
1. The Journeymen		129
2. The Masters		136
3. From the Humanist Printer to the Bookseller of the Enlightenment		143
4. Authors and their Rights		159
6. The Geography of the Book		167
1. The Journeys of Printers		167
2. Places to Set Up Business		170
3. Geography and Publishing		180

4. Printing Conquers the World	198
A. The Slav Countries:	198
Bohemia and Moravia	198
Poland	200
The Southern Slavs	203
Russia	205
B. The New World	207
C. The Far East	212
 7. The Book Trade	 216
1. Some Basic Data: Sizes of Editions	216
2. Some Problems for the Trade	222
3. Business Methods at the Time of the Book-Fairs	224
4. Towards New Business Methods	234
5. Privilege and Piracy	239
6. Censorship and Banned Books	244
 8. The Book as a Force for Change	 248
1. From Manuscript to Printed Book	248
2. Humanism and the Book	262
3. The Book and the Reformation	287
4. Printing and Language	319
 Notes	 333
 Index	 355