

Table of Contents

Opinion

SARAH MACDONALD

Driving Change—Gender Stereotyping in Advertising 1

This opinion piece reviews the Advertising Standards Authority's rulings on Mondelez, Volkswagen and Nestlé, and considers whether the regulator strikes the right balance when applying the new rule on gender stereotypes.

ANDREW TERRY AND EILEEN WEINERT

Lachaux v Independent Print Ltd—Supreme Court Settles “Rival Constructions” on Serious Harm Under the Defamation Act 2013 s.1—Revolution or Storm in a Teacup? 3

This opinion piece considers the judgments of the High Court, Court of Appeal and Supreme Court in Lachaux v Independent Print Ltd and considers whether Lachaux has brought about a revolution in libel law, or a storm in a teacup.

Articles

ANDY PHIPPEN AND EMMA BOND

Online Safeguarding of Adults with Mental Capacity Issues—Are the 3 Cs The Most Progressive Response? 8

The recent joint Court of Protection rulings by Cobb J on Re A and Re B have finally provided some guidance on the evaluation of the capabilities of those with mental capacity issues in engaging with online services. However, this article raises concerns as to whether such a test might be failed by many without mental capacity issues.

JENNIFER AGATE, ARRON JOLLIFFE
AND REEVE BOYD

Influencer Advertising: Latest ASA Findings 14

This article considers the ASA's findings from its recent survey into the labelling of influencer advertising.

Comments

MARK BROWN AND CHARLES PURDIE

Blizzard v Bossland: An Account of Profits Judgment for Licensing Video Game “Cheats” and “Bots” Software 17

This article reviews the High Court's judgment on an account of profits in the Blizzard v Bossland “battle of the bots” litigation, the first account of profits ruling in relation to a global software business, in this instance, in the online gaming context.

ANITA BAPAT AND ALEXANDER
DITTEL

Social Media Plug-Ins and Personal Data—Who is Responsible? CJEU Confirms that Website Operator and Facebook Can Be Joint Controllers 20

This article considers the implications of the CJEU's recent decision in Case C-40/17 Fashion ID GmbH & Co KG v Verbraucherzentrale NRW eV that the operator of a website that features a Facebook “Like” button can be a controller jointly with Facebook.

MATTHEW DANDO

“There but for the grace of God”: Restraining the Use of Confidential Information Mistakenly Disclosed 22

The High Court has granted an interim injunction to prevent disclosure of confidential information contained in an email mistakenly sent to the wrong recipient. The judgment is a helpful statement of the law and the extent to which legal principles can be prayed in aid to counter the otherwise negative consequences of such errors.

PETER MASON

Mircom v Virgin: High Court Turns Down Norwich Pharmacal Repeat Prescription 24

This article reviews the High Court ruling in Mircom International Content Management & Consulting Ltd v Virgin Media Ltd refusing an application for Norwich Pharmacal relief brought by two companies whose main purpose is enforcing copyright in pornographic films.

PETER SMITH

Wright v Ver: England and Wales Not “Clearly” the Most Appropriate Forum for Defamation Action 26

This article reviews the High Court ruling in Wright v Ver in which Nicklin J struck out a defamation claim because he was not satisfied that England and Wales was “clearly” the most appropriate place in which to bring the action.

EMILY NUTALL-WOOD

Spiegel Online v Volker Beck: Press Freedoms Versus Copyright in the Digital World 28

This article reviews Case C-516/17 Spiegel Online GmbH v Volker Beck in which the Court of Justice of the European Union considered the balance between the fundamental rights of the press and those of a copyright holder; whether Member States can make consent of the copyright holder a pre-condition for relying on the exception under the Copyright Directive for reporting current events; and whether the “quotation” exception covers a reference made by means of a hyperlink to a file which can be downloaded independently.

ALEXANDRA COOKE

Claridge’s Success in Trade Mark Infringement and Passing Off Claim Nothing to Wax Lyrical About 31

This article reviews the IPEC decision in Claridge’s Hotel Ltd v Claridge Candles Ltd which concerned a trade mark dispute between the well-known London hotel and a small, one-woman company based in Kent.

ED WEIDMAN AND RACHAEL HEELEY

High Court Bans “Urban Explorers” From O2 Arena Roof and Orders Take-Down of Videos: Ansko Arena Ltd v Law 33

The High Court has granted an anticipatory final injunction against known defendants and persons unknown, restraining them from trespassing on the O2 Arena and requiring the known defendants to remove videos of their past O2 trespasses from their social media channels. In confirming protection against venue intrusion and unauthorised exploitation of footage, the ruling will be welcome to venue owners, promoters and artists.

KATIE CAMERON AND DR JANET STRATH

Ray of Light: UK High Court Finds Copyright Subsists in Ephemeral Artistic Work 35

This article reviews Islestarr v Aldi in which the High Court found that Aldi had infringed the artistic copyright in two designs subsisting in Charlotte Tilbury’s “Filmstar Bronze & Glow” make-up palette. The court rejected Aldi’s case that no copyright could subsist in a design embossed into the surface of make-up powder due to its ephemeral nature, and also dismissed Aldi’s argument that both artistic works were generic art deco sunray motifs.

Book Review

URSULA SMARTT

Media Law and Policy in the Internet Age by Doreen Weisenhaus and Simon N M Young (eds) 39