

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
PART 1
1979–1982	7
1 Revolutions in east and west: Iran and Nicaragua	9
2 Thatcher, Reagan and free markets: ghost towns, rust belts and a new individualism	23
3 Inside the Soviet bloc: the end of détente and the rise of Solidarność	39
4 Africa and decolonisation: twenty years after the ‘winds of change’	54
PART 2
1983–1985	71
5 Changes in China: the consequences of Deng Xiaoping’s reforms	73
6 Bombs, jobs and famine: music and global concerns	87

7	Global crises: AIDS, acid rain and the ozone layer	97
8	Mikhail Gorbachev: new man, new thinking	114
PART 3
1986–1988		127
9	Making a ‘modern’ decade: computers, videos and yuppies	129
10	The first wave of Indian liberalisation: the Rajiv Gandhi era	138
11	South Korea’s twisted path to democracy	146
12	The Middle East in turmoil: Iran–Iraq and the first intifada	155
PART 4
1989–1991		171
13	Reagan and Thatcher depart, a new world order emerges	173
14	Latin America’s transition to democracy: Chile and Haiti	191
15	‘Free Nelson Mandela’: the end of apartheid in South Africa	206
16	The communist world breaks	220
Conclusion		237
Bibliography		244
Index		268