

CONTENTS

Preface ix

Acknowledgements xiii

Introduction 1

On the Necessity of Models 2

The Basic Dichotomy: Consensus Versus Authority 3

The Separation of Ownership and Control 4

The Central Problem of Corporate Governance 6

The Survival Value of the Separation of Ownership and Control 6

Theories of Corporate Governance 8

The Domain of Director Primacy 12

Is a Unified Field Theory of Corporate Governance Possible? 14

The Plan of the Work 16

1. The Means and Ends of Corporate Governance 23

The Corporation as Person 25

The Corporation as Entity 26

The Corporation as Nexus of Contracts 28

Judicial Acceptance 30

The Hypothetical Bargain Methodology 30

Implications of the Contractarian Model 32

Locating the Nexus 33

The Shareholders' Deal 35

The Bargaining Parties	37
The Bargain over the Means of Corporate Governance	37
On the Necessity of Fiat	38
Fiat by Contract?	45
The Inefficiency of Multiple Constituencies	45
Allocating Control: Why Do Only Shareholders Vote?	50
Why Not Shareholder Primacy?	53
The Bargain over the Ends of Corporate Governance	57
Director Primacy Versus Team Production	60
Incorporating Shareholder Wealth Maximization into Director Primacy	65
The "Problem" of Agency Costs	73
 2. Why a Board?	77
Groups and Individuals	78
The Board as Production Team	79
Groups v. Individuals: Experimental Evidence	82
Groups and Bounded Rationality	89
Individual v. Group Decision-Making Biases	94
Agency Costs	100
 3. Director Primacy in the Courts	105
The Business Judgment Rule	106
Judicial Review of Operational Decisions	108
First Principles	111
Defending Deference to Board Authority	114
Encouraging Risk-Taking	114
Judges Are Not Business Experts	120
Impact on the Board's Internal Dynamics	124
Corporate Decisions Affect Nonshareholder Constituencies, But So What?	126
The Limits of Abstention	127
The Rule of Undivided Loyalty	129
The Presumption in Favor of Authority	130
The Paradigm Conflict of Interest: The Unsolicited Takeover Bid	134

The Academics' Balance(s)	134
Delaware's Balance	136
Why Not Passivity?	141
Summation	153
4. The Shift from Managerialism to Director Primacy	155
The Evolving Role of the Board of Directors	157
The Emergence of the Monitoring Board	160
Boards Today	161
Best Practices	163
Compensation Practices	167
Reputational Concerns	171
Judicial Insistence on Informed Decision Making	173
Judicial Pressure for Director Independence	175
Sarbanes-Oxley and the Board of Directors	176
The Majority Independent Board and Its Committees	177
Is an Independent Board Essential for Director Primacy?	187
The Bottom Line: Are Boards Becoming More Effective?	198
5. The Future of Corporate Governance: Director or Shareholder Primacy	201
Shareholders Are Rationally Apathetic	202
Institutional Passivity	203
Why Are Institutions Passive?	207
Vehicles for Shareholder Activism	209
Exit	209
Proxy Contests	210
Withholding One's Votes in Director Elections	212
Shareholder Proposals	214
Communication	219
Litigation	220
Proposals for Expanding the Shareholder Franchise	222
Reforming the Director Nomination Process	222
Proposals to Reform the Mechanics of the Voting Process	224

Expanding the Substance of Shareholder Voting Rights	225
Should the Shareholder Franchise Be Expanded?	225
Pathologies of Voting	226
The Revealed Preferences of Shareholders	227
Why Not Shareholder Democracy?	228
The Risk of Private Rent Seeking	228
The Case for Preserving the Board of Directors' Authority	233
Index	237