

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments page xiii

Introduction I

PART I: DATA

Survey of Trades investigated 15; Metalwork 15; Electric and Gas Fittings 20; Furniture 33; Textiles: I. Furnishing (and Dress) Materials 45; Textiles: II. Carpets 58; Wallpapers 67; Pottery 71; Glass 84; Silver and Electro-Plate 91; Hollow-ware 95; Plastic Mouldings 98; Wireless Cabinets 101; Jewellery 108; Leather Goods 114; Packaging 122; Printing 126; Motor-cars 128.

Art Schools visited 138; The British Institute of Industrial Art 154; The Industrial Art Committee of the Federation of British Industries 155; The Gorell Committee 156; The Pick Council 157; The Design and Industries Association 159; The Society of Industrial Artists 162; The Royal Society of Arts 163; The Royal Academy and the Exhibition of British Art in Industry at Burlington House 164; Other Exhibitions 169; Periodicals and Books 171.

PART II: CONCLUSIONS

Ratio between Good and Bad in England and Abroad 179; Sequence of Trades according to Artistic Quality of Products 180; Reasons for Differences of Artistic Quality 181; Size of Manufacturing Unit 181; Organization of Manufacturing Unit 183; Old and New Industries 185; Objects for Use and Objects for Adornment 186; Hand-made and Machine-made Articles 187; Boom and Slump 191; The Creator of Designs 193; The Aesthetic Value of Cheap and Expensive Articles 200; The Taste of the Public 204; The Social Problem 212.

Suggestions for Improvements: I. Art Education 215; II. Exhibitions—Prizes—Registration of Design 224; III. Other Public Institutions—Private Institutions—Publications 227; The Duties of the Consumer 229; The Duties of the Manufacturer and the Retailer 229.

Addenda 232