

Contents

Focus: Digital Ontology and Epistemology: Between Law, Literature and the Visual Arts

Daniela Carpi

Introduction: Digital Ontology and Epistemology. Between Law, Literature and the Visual Arts — 1

Svend Erik Larsen

“The Earth Is Flat!” The Literary Complexity of Truth, Lies and Fake Knowledge — 5

Antoinette Maget Dominicé, Dario Henri Haux and Fabienne Sarah Graf
Saving Content in Digital Surroundings: A Safe Solution? — 17

Scott Fraley

Digital Justice: Shining Future or Illusory Chimera? — 47

Jeanne Gaakeer

“Select before You Collect”: Uses and Abuses of Profiling and Data Mining in Law and Literature — 57

Annalisa Volpone

Supposing the Law: Nomos and Categorical Imperatives in Never Let Me Go — 73

Paola Carbone and Giuseppe Rossi

Digital Voodoo: Who Does What? — 91

Cristina Costantini

Forensic Iconicity: The Experimental Law’s Whatness in Digital Culture — 131

Research

Yvonne Bezrucka

Digital Media, Fears, and Their Ontological Demagogic Power: Utopia, Homeland, Occupied — 147

Doris Pichler

Law as Literature: The Interdisciplinary Endeavour of Oudropo,, and Their Interdisciplinary Play with Text — 163

Peter D. Usher

The Merchant of Venice* and the Paschal Moon — 183

Book Reviews

Sidia Fiorato

Monsters and Monstrosity. From the Canon to the Anti-Canon: Literary and Juridical Subversions — 197

Roberta Zanoni

Reimagining Society in Eighteenth-Century French Literature. Happiness and Human Rights — 203