

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Notes on contributors	viii
Critical happiness studies: an invitation	1
NICHOLAS HILL, SVEND BRINKMANN AND ANDERS PETERSEN
PART I
Fantastical happiness: an impossible ideal	21
1 Happiness, a moralistic fantasy	23
CARL CEDERSTRÖM
2 ‘Clap along if you feel like a room without a roof’: understanding the pursuit of happiness as ideology	35
ANDERS PETERSEN
3 ‘The sickness unto health’: self-reification, self-love, and the critique of happiness in contemporary life	48
ALASTAIR MORGAN
PART II
The political and social effects of happiness	65
4 Hijacking the language of functionality? In praise of ‘negative’ emotions against happiness	67
EDGAR CABANAS AND EVA ILLOUZ

vi Contents

5	Happiness and the new politicization of subjectivity	83
	GRANT DUNCAN
6	Happiness: a societal 'imperative'?	98
	LAURA HYMAN
7	'It's the soul that needs the surgery'? The social life of (un)happiness	110
	NICHOLAS HILL
PART III
	Resources for critical happiness studies	129
8	Living well and living right: aesthetic and ethical dimensions of happiness	131
	SVEND BRINKMANN
9	Sociology, biographical research, and the development of critical happiness studies	144
	MARK CIESLIK
10	Drowning in liquidity: Zygmunt Bauman on happiness, ambivalence, and security	162
	JORDAN MCKENZIE
11	Complicating the happy cure: psychoanalysis and the ends of analysis	177
	COLIN WRIGHT
	Index	193