

Contents

Preface IX

Acknowledgments XII

List of Abbreviations XIII

Introduction: The Historical Situation of Law in the Federal Republic 1

- 0.1 Politics and the Law 4
- 0.2 The Centrality of Law after the Collapse of 1945 7
- 0.3 Institutional Structures in German Law: Basic Law and the Federal Constitutional Court 12
- 0.4 Statute Rather Than Common Law 16
- 0.5 Anomalies in a Changing Legal Code 20
- 0.6 History and the Law in the Federal Republic 23

1 The Trial of Friedrich Flick 26

- 1.1 Understanding the NS State 30
- 1.2 Who Was Flick and on What Charges Did He Appear? 32
- 1.3 Legal Issues 35
- 1.4 The Sentence 39
- 1.5 Assessing the Verdict 41
- 1.6 The Repercussions of the Flick Trial 42

2 Adjusting the Political Landscape: Banning the KPD 49

- 2.1 The Banning of Political Parties 50
- 2.2 Outlawing the KPD 52
- 2.3 The Deliberations of the BVerfG 56
- 2.4 The Legal Consequences of the Ban 59
- 2.5 Reflections on Constitutional Courts and Politics 62

3 The Lüth Case – at What Price Freedom of Expression? 67

- 3.1 The Starting-Point: Artists and Nazism 67
- 3.2 The Call for a Boycott 70
- 3.3 The Decision of the BVerfG 71
- 3.4 Repercussions 74

- 4 Four Murders, and Reflections on Court-Reporting in the Federal German Press 79
 - 4.1 Reporting the Law 79
 - 4.2 Precedents in Weimar 85
 - 4.3 The Federal Republic 88
 - 4.4 A Routine Murder 89
 - 4.5 Rosemarie Nitribitt 92
 - 4.6 Two Women in Court 95
 - 4.7 Hetzel's Campaign for a Retrial 97
 - 4.8 Conclusions 102

- 5 Personal Matters in Court: Homosexuality and Abortion 106
 - 5.1 The Legacy of the Past 108
 - 5.2 Post-War Shifts of Policy 111
 - 5.3 The Frankfurt Homosexual Trials 112
 - 5.4 § 218 in the Federal Republic 118
 - 5.5 'It's Not You, Doctor, Who Have Offended Me, but the Judges' 119
 - 5.6 The Campaign against § 218 Moves Forward 125
 - 5.7 The Last Razzia 127

- 6 The Spiegel Affair 130
 - 6.1 The Dimensions of the Affair 132
 - 6.2 Old Antagonisms 134
 - 6.3 The Principal Legal Issue: Military Secrecy 137
 - 6.4 A Brief Consideration of the BVerfG Judgment 142

- 7 The Frankfurt Auschwitz Trial 146
 - 7.1 At Last the Silence Is Broken 147
 - 7.2 The Implications of the Eichmann Trial 149
 - 7.3 Auschwitz-Birkenau 150
 - 7.4 Preparing for the Trial 152
 - 7.5 Gathering Momentum 158
 - 7.6 A New Type of Trial 160
 - 7.7 Individual Moments from the Proceedings 163
 - 7.8 Sentencing and Final Considerations 168
 - 7.9 Final Comments 174

- 8 The 1970s: The Campaign against Radicals – Ideology Becomes the Crime 177

8.1	Prologue	177
8.2	Background to the 1970s	180
8.3	The Legal Basis of the Berufsverbot	185
8.4	Three Individual Cases	187
8.5	The Legal Issues	191
8.6	The BVerfG Judgment	195
8.7	Dissenting Judges	199
8.8	Final Thoughts	201
9	Chasing after Sympathizers – Threats to the Rule of Law	204
9.1	Reactions to an Act of Terror	210
9.2	An Unwanted Requiem	211
9.3	Sympathizing with Terror?	212
9.4	The Knives Come Out	215
9.5	A Chequered History of Controlling Free Speech	218
10	The Rub of the Green – a Range of Environmental Cases	224
10.1	Historical Prologue	224
10.2	Environmental Protection in the Federal Republic	226
10.3	Violence among the Trees	230
10.4	Chemical Pollution – ‘Everyone the Loser’	231
10.5	Reflections on a Small Victory for the Environment	236
10.6	Problems of Atomic Power: Atomkraft? Nein Danke	243
11	Danger from the Right	252
11.1	Post-heroic Law	252
11.2	Ten Murders	256
11.3	The Origins of Racist Violence	257
11.4	The Role of the Extreme Right	260
11.5	Institutional Failures	262
11.6	Back to the Crimes	269
11.7	Problems with the Trial	270
11.8	The Trial	271
	Appendix: Background Notes	277
	Bibliography	294
	Index	310