

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

CONTRIBUTORS

INTRODUCTION

PART I: TECHNOLOGY AND CHILD AND ADULT DEVELOPMENT

CHAPTER ONE

The impact of technology on development, community, and teletherapy
Jill Savege Scharff

CHAPTER TWO

The impact of electronic media and communication on object relations
Becky Bailey

CHAPTER THREE

The seduction of digital magic
Luca Nicoli

CHAPTER FOUR

Intimacy, sexuality, and pornography online
Jill Savege Scharff

CHAPTER FIVE

Transitional space: the role of Internet community for transgender and gender non-conforming patients
Andi Pilecki

CHAPTER SIX

Psychanalysts facing new technologies: a world of fluid boundaries
Abbie Abella

PART II: CONCERNS ABOUT TELEANALYSIS: ETHICS, LEGALITIES, INTERFERENCE

Abby saved a mother: a teletherapy case study
Nancy L. Bakalar

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Teleanalysis and teletherapy for children and adolescents?
Caroline M. Schon

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Cyberspace as potential space
Yvonne de Varela

CHAPTER EIGHT

Legal aspects of teleanalysis in the United States
Emma Vandenberg

CHAPTER NINE

Teleanalysis: problems, limitations, and opportunities
Ang Tao

CHAPTER TEN

The use of technology in the treatment of children
Janine Winkler

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Teaching psychoanalytic psychotherapy and infant observation by video link
David E. Scharff

CHAPTER TWELVE

Emergency SMS-based intervention in chronic suicidality: a research project using conversation analysis
Michael B. Bruchholz and Horst Kischel

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Occasional telephone sessions in ongoing in-person psychoanalysis
David E. Scharff

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Is there a difference between teleanalysis and teletherapy?
Caroline M. Schon

CHAPTER SIX

- Psychoanalysts facing new technologies in a world of liquid modernity
Adela Abella

67

PART II: CONCERNS ABOUT TELEANALYSIS: ETHICS, LEGALITIES, INTERFERENCE

CHAPTER SEVEN

- Thinking ethically about beginning online work
Ernest Wallwork

83

CHAPTER EIGHT

- Legal aspects of teleanalysis in the United States
Donna Vanderpool

93

CHAPTER NINE

- Teleanalysis: problems, limitations, and opportunities
Lin Tao

105

PART III: TECHNOLOGY IN TRAINING

CHAPTER TEN

- The use of technology in clinical supervision and consultation
Janine Wanlass

123

CHAPTER ELEVEN

- Teaching psychoanalytic psychotherapy and infant observation by video link
David E. Scharff

133

CHAPTER TWELVE

- Emergency SMS-based intervention in chronic suicidality: a research project using conversation analysis
Michael B. Buchholz and Horst Kächele

145

PART IV: TECHNOLOGY IN TREATMENT

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

- Occasional telephone sessions in ongoing in-person psychoanalysis
David E. Scharff

163

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

- Is there a difference between telephone and in-person sessions?
Lea S. de Setton

173

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
Technology-stirred projective processes in couple teletherapy	185
Carl Bagnini
CHAPTER SIXTEEN
A baby saved: a mother made	195
Nancy L. Bakalar
CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
Teleanalysis and teletherapy for children and adolescents?	209
Caroline M. Sehon
CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
Cyberspace as potential space	233
Yolanda de Varela
CHAPTER NINETEEN
One analyst's journey into cyberspace	239
Glen O. Gabbard
INDEX	247