

Contents

Acknowledgments VII

List of Maps IX

Maps X

Introduction: Imagining Russian Regions 1

- 1 The Imperial Logic of Russian Space 23
- 2 The Era of Small Reforms: The Rise of a Non-Noble Provincial Identity under Nicholas I 60
- 3 What Should Rural Russia Be?: The Shift from Paternalism to Abolitionism among the Russian Nobility, 1830s–50s 135
- 4 Former Serfs and Masters United by Shared Property Rights: Hegel and the Case for a New Rural Civil Society 174
- 5 Centralization and Its Discontents: The Clash between the State and the Followers of the Hegelian Idea of Civil Society 219

Conclusion: Subnational Identity and Civil Society in Nineteenth-Century Russia 284

Bibliography 291

Index 314