

CONTENTS

Contributors	viii
1 The promise and problem of critical reflection Jan Fook, Val Collington, Fiona Ross, Gillian Ruch and Linden West	1
PART I
Overview of perspectives	9
2 So what exactly is critical about critical reflection? Stephen Brookfield	11
3 Relational practices in critical reflection: the role of communication and containment Gillian Ruch	23
4 Spiritual creatures? Exploring an interface between critical reflective practice and spirituality Cheryl Hunt	34
5 Critical reflection in management and organization studies Anne Pässilä and Russ Vince	48

PART II

The evidence base? 63

- 6 What can we do if we don't count? 65
Nick Gould
- 7 Achieving critical reflection through effective curriculum design and assessment strategies 77
Bairbre Redmond
- 8 Evaluation studies of critical reflection 90
Jan Fook, Maria Psounos and Daniele Sartori

PART III

Research issues and related methodologies 107

- 9 Issues in researching professional practice: deriving knowledge from professional practice 109
Stanley L. Witkin
- 10 Critical reflection? Auto/biographical narrative enquiry and illuminating professional struggles in distressed communities 119
Linden West
- 11 First-person action research and critical reflection 133
Judi Marshall

PART IV

The way forward 143

- 12 Researching critical reflection in management education 145
Bente Elkjaer and Niels Christian Mossfeldt Nickelsen
- 13 Researching critical reflection in health care: current issues and new directions 158
Val Collington and Fiona Ross

14	New directions for researching critical reflection in organizations	171
	Richard J. Cotter, Anne Pässilä and Russ Vince
15	A research agenda for critical reflection in the professions	183
	Jan Fook, Val Collington, Fiona Ross, Gillian Ruch and Linden West
	Index	192