

Contents

Introduction	ix
 Part I World War I
“Train Yourself to Defend Your Country”: British Children’s Novels in the First World War Dorothea Flothow	3
Through Comic Eyes: Punch , the British Army, and Pictorial Humour on the Western Front, 1914-1918 John C. Horn	21
Budapest and the Great War: An Overview Moni L. Riez	45
 Part II Victims
War Survivors’ Fractured Identities in Hiroshima mon amour Brigitte Le Juez	61
Victims and Perpetrators: Memory and Reconciliation in Northern Ireland Agnès Maillot	73
 Part III Cyberwar
E-Jihad, Cyberterrorism and Freedom of Speech Markku Jokisipilä	91
The New Minutemen: Civil Society, the Military and Cyberspace Mark L. Perry	115

Part IV Parallels

On the Similarities between Business and War 137
Albrecht M. Fritzsche

Inventing the General: A Re-appraisal of the Sunzi bingfa 151
Andrew Meyer and Andrew R. Wilson

Notes on Contributors 169