

Contents

About the authors	iii
Foreword	v
Part A M.A.K Halliday
Chapter 1 Context of situation	3
Introduction	3
Language in a social-semiotic perspective	3
Language, context, and text	5
What a text is	10
The three features of the context of situation	12
Chapter 2 Functions of language	15
Introduction	15
Function as a fundamental principle of language	16
The relationship of the text and its context of situation	24
Functions and meanings in a text	26
Chapter 3 Register variation	29
Introduction	29
Linguistic and situational features of context	29
Field of discourse of a text	30
Tenor of discourse of a text	31
Mode of discourse of a text	34
Text and context: predicting the one from the other	34
The concept of 'register'	38
Variations in kinds of register	39
Registers and dialects	41
Coda Text, context, and learning	44
Text as a metafunctional construct	44
Context of situation	45
Context of culture	46
Intertextuality	47
Coherence	48
Text, context, and learning	48

Part B Ruqaiya Hasan
Chapter 4 The structure of a text	52
Introduction	52
What is text structure?	53
A text and its context	54
Contextual configuration	55
Text 4.1 and its context	56
The structure of Text 4.1	59
A text and its genre: generic structure potential	63
The status of obligatory elements in the structure potential	66
Context, genre, and text structure	68
Chapter 5 The texture of a text	70
Introduction	70
What is texture?	70
Texture, cohesive ties, and cohesive devices	72
The texture of Texts 5.1 and 5.2	86
Texture and textual coherence	88
Texture, coherence, and the teacher	95
Chapter 6 The identity of a text	97
Introduction	97
What counts as one CC?	99
What counts as one genre?	108
A text and its uniqueness	109
Coda Learning through text in context
References	119
Further reading	122
Technical terms	125
Acknowledgements	126