

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Researching the social: an introduction to ethnographic research	1
Stephanie Taylor
Part I At society's margins	13
1 Respect at work: 'Going legit'	15
Philippe Bourgois
2 Policing and public health: law enforcement and harm minimization in a street-level drug market	36
Lisa Maher and David Dixon
Part II Gendered identities	65
3 'Not as nice as she was supposed to be': schoolgirls' friendships	67
Valerie Hey
4 'One of the boys': black masculinity and the peer group	91
Claire E. Alexander
Part III Workplace practices	113
5 Manufacturing sexual subjects: 'harassment', desire and discipline on a Maquiladora shopfloor	115
Leslie Salzinger

6	Distributed cognition in an airline cockpit Edwin Hutchins and Tove Klausen	138
Part IV The consumption of cultural products		159
7	Tourists at the Taj Mahal: walking and gazing Tim Edensor	161
8	The global, the local, and the hybrid: a native ethnography of glocalization Marwan M. Kraidy	187
Part V Working to provide medical services		211
9	Humour as resistance to professional dominance in community mental health teams Lesley Griffiths	213
10	Openness and specialisation: dealing with patients in a hospital emergency service Nicolas Dodier and Agnès Camus	234
	Guided reading exercises	264
	Index	271