

DETAILED CONTENTS

1 Introductory Matters

1.1	Administrative Law	1
1.2	How is Good Administration to be Secured?	1
1.2.1	Red Light Theory	2
1.2.2	Green Light Theory	3
1.2.3	Why is Theory Important?	5
1.3	The Changing Face of Judicial Review	6
1.3.1	The Scope and Intensity of Review	6
1.3.2	Why is Judicial Review Expanding?	8
1.3.3	Is (More) Judicial Review a Good Thing?	9
1.4	The Constitutional Basis of Judicial Review	11
1.4.1	The Ultra Vires Doctrine	11
1.4.2	The Common Law Theory	14
1.4.3	Must Judicial Review be Related to Legislative Intention?	17
1.4.4	The Modified Ultra Vires Theory	21
1.4.5	Conclusion	23
1.5	Administrative Power in the Modern Constitution	24
1.5.1	Devolution	24
1.5.2	Local Government	27
1.5.3	Agencies and the Private Sector	29
1.6	Concluding Remarks	32
	Further Resources	33

2 Jurisdiction

2.1	Introduction	34
2.1.1	What is 'Jurisdiction'?	34

2.1.2 Distinguishing Jurisdictional and Non-Jurisdictional Matters	37
2.2 Errors of Law	38
2.2.1 Introduction	38
2.2.2 Jurisdictional and Non-Jurisdictional Errors of Law	39
2.2.3 The Anisminic Decision	40
2.2.4 The General Principle: Errors of Law as Jurisdictional Errors	47
2.2.5 Exceptions to the General Principle	50
2.3 Applying Statutory Criteria to the Facts	59
2.4 Supervision of the Fact-Finding Process	71
2.5 Subjective Jurisdictional Criteria	73
2.6 Non-Compliance with Statutory Requirements	75
2.7 Concluding Remarks	77
Further Resources	78

3 The Status of Unlawful Administrative Action

3.1 Void or Voidable?	79
3.1.1 The Practical Argument	79
3.1.2 The Theoretical Argument	81
3.2 The Nature of Voidness	85
3.2.1 The Presumption of Validity	85
3.2.2 The Principle of Legal Relativity	91
3.3 Managing the Practical Effects of Voidness	93
3.3.1 The 'Domino Effect' Problem	93
3.3.2 The Void/Voidable Distinction as a Management Technique	94
3.3.3 Judicial Discretion	96
3.3.4 The Theory of the Second Actor	97
3.3.5 Partial Invalidity	101

3.4	Collateral Challenge	102
3.4.1	Voidness and Collateral Challenge	102
3.4.2	The Importance of Collateral Challenge	103
3.4.3	The Limits of Collateral Challenge	106
3.5	Concluding Remarks	109
	Further Resources	109

4 Discretionary Power: An Introduction

4.1	What is Discretionary Power?	110
4.2	Discretion and the Administrative State	112
	Further Resources	114

5 The Scope of Public Law Principles

5.1	Introduction	115
5.2	Statutory Powers	115
5.3	Prerogative Powers	116
5.3.1	The Nature of Prerogative Power	116
5.3.2	The Amenability of the Prerogative to Judicial Review	117
5.3.3	From Form to Substance: Justiciability as the Limiting Factor	121
5.4	De Facto Powers	130
5.4.1	The Datafin Case	130
5.4.2	Defining the Scope of Judicial Review	133
5.4.3	The Limits of Review and its Underlying Rationale	134
5.4.4	Contractual Arrangements	138
5.4.5	Public Law and Private Law: Should There Be a Divide?	142
5.5	Section 6 of the Human Rights Act 1998	144
5.6	Concluding Remarks	153
	Further Resources	153

6 Retention of Discretion

6.1	Introduction	154
6.2	Delegation of Discretionary Power	154
6.2.1	A Presumption Against Delegation	154
6.2.2	Conflicting Policies	156
6.2.3	The Nature of Delegation	157
6.2.4	Departmental Decision-Making in Central Government	159
6.3	Discretion and Policy	166
6.3.1	Distinguishing Policies and Rules	166
6.3.2	The Legality of Policy-Orientated Decision-Making	167
6.3.3	Discretion and Policy: The Underlying Issues	171
6.4	Discretionary Power and Contractual Arrangements	173
6.5	Concluding Remarks	176
	Further Resources	176

7 Legitimate Expectations

7.1	Lawfully Created Expectations	177
7.1.1	Why Protect Legitimate Expectations?	177
7.1.2	Two Variables: Legitimacy and Protection	179
7.1.3	Legitimacy: What is the Claimant Entitled to Expect?	181
7.1.4	Procedural Protection	192
7.1.5	Substantive Protection	194
7.1.6	Revocability of Lawful Administrative Decisions	200
7.2	Unlawfully Created Expectations	201
7.2.1	Introduction	201
7.2.2	Fairness to the Individual	202
7.2.3	Constitutionality and the Public Interest	203
7.2.4	A New Approach	206
7.2.5	Representations Issued by Unauthorized Officials	209

7.2.6 Representations Concerning Action which is Ultra Vires the Agency	213
--	-----

7.3 Concluding Remarks	220
Further Resources	220

8 Abuse of Discretion I

8.1 Introduction	221
8.2 Loyalty to the Statutory Scheme: The Propriety of Purpose Doctrine	223
8.2.1 Overlapping Principles?	223
8.2.2 Express and Implied Purposes	223
8.2.3 The Purpose Doctrine and the Intensity of Review	225
8.2.4 Multiple Purposes	228
8.3 Inputs into the Decision-Making Process: The Relevancy Doctrine	229
8.3.1 Introduction	229
8.3.2 General Principles	230
8.3.3 Relevancy, Judicial Intervention, and Executive Autonomy	234
8.4 Concluding Remarks	241
Further Resources	242

9 Abuse of Discretion II

9.1 Introduction	243
9.2 Reasonableness and Rationality	244
9.2.1 The Wednesbury and GCHQ Cases	244
9.2.2 Deference and the Variable Standard of Review	249
9.3 Proportionality as a Principle of Review	256
9.3.1 The Methodology of Wednesbury Review	256
9.3.2 Wednesbury , Proportionality, and the Intensity of Review	259
9.3.3 Towards Proportionality	264
9.3.4 The Daly Case and the Human Rights Act	267

9.3.5 Deference	272
9.3.6 Democratic and Institutional Considerations	279
9.3.7 Substantive Review: the Future	288
<hr/>
9.4 Concluding Remarks	291
Further Resources	291

10 The Rule Against Bias

10.1 The Rule: Its Scope and Rationale	292
<hr/>
10.2 Automatic Disqualification	295
10.2.1 Financial Interests	295
10.2.2 Beyond Financial Interests: Pinochet	303
<hr/>
10.3 The Apprehension of Bias	309
10.3.1 Suspicion, Likelihood, Danger: Competing Tests	309
10.3.2 Beyond Gough : The Fair-Minded and Informed Observer	313
<hr/>
10.4 Bias, Policy, and Politics	319
<hr/>
10.5 Article 6	323
10.5.1 Introduction: Article 6 in an Administrative Context	323
10.5.2 When Does Article 6(1) Apply to Administrative Decision-Making?	327
10.5.3 What Does Article 6(1) Require in the Administrative Sphere?	331
<hr/>
10.6 Concluding Remarks	340
Further Resources	341

11 Procedural Fairness

11.1 The Idea of Procedural Fairness	342
<hr/>
11.2 The Province of Procedural Fairness	346
11.2.1 A Question of Function or of Impact?	346
11.2.2 Natural Justice and Acting Fairly	355
11.2.3 Legitimate Expectations of Fair Treatment	358

11.2.4	Article 6: The Scope of the Right to a Fair and Public Hearing	358
11.2.5	The Limits of Procedural Fairness	359
11.3	The Nature of Procedural Fairness	362
11.3.1	Fairness: A Context-Sensitive Phenomenon	362
11.3.2	The Right to Know the Opposing Case	368
11.3.3	Hearings: Cross-Examination, Legal Representation, and Evidence	374
11.3.4	Appeals	387
11.4	Concluding Remarks	391
	Further Resources	391

12 Giving Reasons For Decisions

12.1	Reasons, Notice, and Rationality	392
12.2	Why Require Reasons?	393
12.2.1	The Virtues of Reason-Giving	393
12.2.2	A General Duty to Give Reasons?	396
12.3	The Duty to Give Reasons at Common Law	398
12.3.1	The Emergence of a Common Law Duty to Give Reasons	398
12.3.2	Reasons, Appeal, and Review	400
12.3.3	A 'Unitary' Test	402
12.3.4	Reason-Giving and Legitimate Expectation	407
12.4	Statutory and Other Duties to Give Reasons	407
12.4.1	Introduction	407
12.4.2	The Freedom of Information Act 2000	408
12.4.3	Article 6 ECHR	410
12.5	Implications of the Duty to Give Reasons	411
12.6	Concluding Remarks	413
	Further Resources	413

13 Remedies

13.1	Introduction	414
13.2	Injunctions	415
13.2.1	The Role of Injunctions in Public Law	415
13.2.2	The Availability of Interim Injunctions	416
13.2.3	Injunctions and the Crown	419
13.3	Declarations	427
13.3.1	The Role of Declarations in Public Law	427
13.3.2	Interim Declarations	428
13.4	Relator Proceedings	430
13.5	Prerogative Remedies	434
13.5.1	Quashing Orders	434
13.5.2	Prohibiting Orders	436
13.5.3	Mandatory Orders	437
13.6	Concluding Remarks	438
	Further Resources	438

14 The Judicial Review Procedure

14.1	Introduction	439
14.2	What is the Judicial Review Procedure?	440
14.2.1	The Origins of Today's Judicial Review Procedure	440
14.2.2	The Nature of the Judicial Review Procedure	442
14.3	When Must the Judicial Review Procedure be Used?	445
14.3.1	Procedural Exclusivity	445
14.3.2	Waiver	455
14.3.3	Resolution of Factual Disputes	456
14.3.4	Defensive Use of Public Law Arguments	456
14.3.5	Private Law Rights Dependent upon Public Law	457

14.3.6 Private Law Rights Affected by Public Law	461
14.3.7 Procedural Exclusivity and the Civil Procedure Rules	465
14.3.8 A More Substantive Approach	465
14.3.9 Transfer into Part 54	469
<hr/>
14.4 Concluding Remarks	470
Further Resources	470

15 Restriction of Remedies

15.1 Introduction	471
<hr/>
15.2 Permission	472
15.2.1 The Pre-Action Protocol	472
15.2.2 Judicial Review: A Two-Stage Process	472
15.2.3 Reform of the Permission Stage	473
15.2.4 The Operation of the Permission Stage	474
<hr/>
15.3 Exhaustion of Alternative Remedies	476
15.3.1 The Principle and its Rationale	476
15.3.2 Exceptions to the General Principle	478
<hr/>
15.4 Time Limits	479
15.4.1 Introduction	479
15.4.2 Interpreting the Rules	481
15.4.3 A Three-Stage Analysis	483
<hr/>
15.5 Prematurity and Ripeness	488
15.5.1 Introduction	488
15.5.2 Preliminary and Interlocutory Decisions	489
15.5.3 Advice, Guidance, Recommendations, and Views	491
15.5.4 Hypothetical Issues and Advisory Declarations	494
<hr/>
15.6 Exclusion of Judicial Review	497
15.6.1 Introduction	497
15.6.2 Finality Clauses	498
15.6.3 'No Certiorari ' and 'as if Enacted' Clauses	499

15.6.4 'Shall not be Questioned' Clauses	500
15.6.5 Further Issues	504
15.6.6 Statutory Review	505
15.6.7 Statutory Remedies and Anisminic	511
15.6.8 Review of Decisions by the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal	512
<hr/>
15.7 Standing	513
15.7.1 Introduction	513
15.7.2 The Law Prior to the National Federation Case	516
15.7.3 The National Federation Case	517
15.7.4 Representative Standing	531
15.7.5 The Foundations of the Law of Standing	537
15.7.6 Standing in Human Rights Cases	540
<hr/>
15.8 Concluding Remarks	543
Further Resources	543

16 Liability of Public Authorities and Crown Proceedings

16.1 General Matters	545
16.1.1 Introduction	545
16.1.2 Relationship with Judicial Review	545
16.1.3 The Meaning of 'the Crown' in this Context	546
<hr/>
16.2 Tort	547
16.2.1 Liability in Tort Generally	547
16.2.2 The Crown's Position in Tort	547
16.2.3 Breach of Statutory Duty	548
16.2.4 The Search for Legislative Intention	548
16.2.5 The Level of Liability	551
16.2.6 Relationship with Ultra Vires	552
16.2.7 Breach of European Community Law Obligations by the State	552
16.2.8 The Human Rights Act 1998: Introduction	554
16.2.9 The Statutory Provisions	555
16.2.10 Is Fault Required?	556

16.2.11	'Just Satisfaction'	556
16.2.12	Procedural Matters	558
16.2.13	Misfeasance in Public Office	558
16.2.14	Causation and Damage	563
16.2.15	The Tort of Negligence: Introduction	563
16.2.16	Development of the Law: The Rise and Fall of Ultra Vires	564
16.2.17	Particular Examples from the Administrative Law Sphere	570
16.2.18	The Question of Liability for Omissions	571
16.2.19	When can there be Liability?	576
16.2.20	Nuisance, Rylands v. Fletcher , and Statutory Authority	578
16.2.21	Other Compensation Possibilities	581
16.2.22	Public Authorities and Other Aspects of the Tort of Nuisance and Rylands v. Fletcher	581
<hr/>
16.3	Contract	582
16.3.1	Introduction	582
16.3.2	(Basic) Contractual Capacity	583
16.3.3	Freedom to Contract	585
16.3.4	Is Parliamentary Appropriation of Funds Necessary?	587
16.3.5	The Non-Fettering Rule	591
16.3.6	Agency and Public Authorities' Contracts	595
16.3.7	The Law of Crown Service	597
16.3.8	Is there a Contract of Employment?	599
16.3.9	Can a Claim in Judicial Review be Brought?	603
<hr/>
16.4	Restitution	604
16.4.1	Introduction	604
16.4.2	The 'Woolwich Principle'	605
16.4.3	The Scope of the 'Woolwich Principle'	606
16.4.4	Relationship with Statute	608
16.4.5	Defences	608
16.4.6	Claims by a Public Body	609
16.4.7	Procedural Matters	609
16.4.8	A Public Law or a Private Law Right?	610

16.5 Remedies, Procedure, and Public Interest Immunity	610
16.5.1 Remedies and Procedure in General	610
16.5.2 Exemplary (or Punitive) Damages	612
16.5.3 Public Interest Immunity	614
16.5.4 Crown Privilege Becomes Public Interest Immunity	618
16.5.5 Evolution of the Doctrine	619
16.5.6 The Questions of who should Raise the Claim and of Waiver	628
16.5.7 Article 6 ECHR, the HRA, and Public Interest Immunity	632
Further Resources	632

17 Delegated Legislation

17.1 Introduction	633
17.1.1 General Matters	633
17.1.2 Enabling Provisions	634
17.1.3 The Nature of Delegated Powers	635
17.1.4 The Extent of Delegated Powers	636
17.1.5 Legislative and Administrative Measures	638
17.2 The Making of Delegated Legislation	640
17.2.1 Publication	640
17.2.2 Consultation	642
17.2.3 The Role of Parliament	648
17.3 Parliamentary Scrutiny	649
17.3.1 The Conferral of Administrative Rule-Making Powers	649
17.3.2 The Exercise of Administrative Rule-Making Powers	650
17.3.3 Technical Scrutiny	650
17.3.4 Policy Scrutiny	651
17.3.5 EU Legislation	653
17.3.6 Regulatory Reform Orders	654
17.4 Judicial Scrutiny	654
17.4.1 Introduction	654
17.4.2 Compatibility with Primary Legislation	655

17.4.3	General Principles of Judicial Review	656
17.4.4	Wider Constitutional Principles and Human Rights	658
<hr/>
17.5	Concluding Remarks	661
	Further Resources	661

18 Inquiries

18.1	Introduction	662
<hr/>
18.2	Background to the Modern Law	664
<hr/>
18.3	Statutory Inquiries Today	665
18.3.1	General	665
18.3.2	The Right to Know the Opposing Case	667
18.3.3	Participation and Procedure	670
18.3.4	Procedure Following the Inquiry	674
<hr/>
18.4	Ad Hoc Inquiries	679
18.4.1	Introduction	679
18.4.2	The Role of Judges in Public Inquiries	682
18.4.3	Questions of Procedure	684
<hr/>
18.5	Concluding Remarks	688
	Further Resources	688

19 Statutory Tribunals

19.1	Introduction	689
19.1.1	The Growth of Tribunals	689
19.1.2	Are Tribunals a Desirable Feature of the Administrative System?	689
19.1.3	The Franks Report	691
<hr/>
19.2	The Independence of Tribunals	694
19.2.1	Tribunals and Government	694
19.2.2	Judicial Leadership of Tribunals	695
19.2.3	Appointment to Tribunals	696

19.3	Procedure in Tribunals	696
19.3.1	Introduction	696
19.3.2	Formality, Representation, and the Style of Tribunal Proceedings	697
19.3.3	Knowledge of Rights and Grounds of Appeal	701
19.3.4	Knowledge of the Case to be Met	702
19.3.5	Reasons for Tribunals' Decisions	702
19.4	Appeals and the System of Tribunals	707
19.4.1	Towards a Tribunals System	707
19.4.2	Appeal From and Review of First-Tier Tribunals' Decisions	708
19.5	The Supervision and Accountability of Tribunals	711
19.6	Concluding Remarks	713
	Further Resources	714

20 Ombudsmen

20.1	Introduction	715
20.1.1	Ombudsmen in the UK	715
20.1.2	The Need for and Role of Ombudsmen	716
20.1.3	Ombudsmen in a Changing Administrative Landscape	719
20.2	Bodies Subject to Investigation	721
20.3	Matters Subject to Investigation	722
20.3.1	'Maladministration'	723
20.3.2	Other Modes of Redress	726
20.3.3	Excluded Matters	726
20.3.4	Discretion to Investigate	728
20.4	The Conduct of Investigations	729
20.4.1	Own-Initiative Investigations	732
20.4.2	The MP Filter	733
20.4.3	Co-operation with the Ombudsman	735
20.4.4	Securing Redress	736

20.5 Problems and Reform	737
20.5.1 The Ombudsmen's Concerns	737
20.5.2 Institutional Reform	737
20.5.3 Throughput	739
20.6 Concluding Remarks	740
Further Resources	741
Appendix	743
Index	753