

Contents

Preface	xix
About the Authors	xxii

SECTION ONE The Multiple Dimensions of Multicultural Counseling and Therapy

1

PART I The Affective and Conceptual Dimensions of Multicultural Counseling and Therapy

3

Chapter 1	Obstacles to Developing Cultural Competence and Cultural Humility: Understanding Resistance to Multicultural Training	5
	Reactions to Reading Counseling the Culturally Diverse	6
	Emotional Self-Revelations and Fears: Majority Group Members	9
	Emotional Invalidation Versus Affirmation: Marginalized Group Members	11
	A Word of Caution	14
	Recognizing and Understanding Resistance to Multicultural Training	15
	Cognitive Resistance—Denial	16
	Emotional Resistance	17
	The Meaning of Anxiety and Fear	17
	The Meaning of Defensiveness and Anger	18
	The Meaning of Guilt, Regret, and Remorse	19
	Behavioral Resistance	20
	Cultural Competence and Emotions	21
	Implications for Clinical Practice	22
	Summary	23
	References	24
Chapter 2	Multicultural Counseling and Therapy (MCT)	26
	Culture-Universal (Etic) Versus Culture-Specific (Emic) Formulations	29
	Cultural Concepts of Distress	29
	Acknowledging Group Differences	30
	Being Aware of Collectivistic Cultures	30
	Attuning to Cultural and Clinical Clues	30
	Balancing the Culture-Specific and Culture-Universal Orientations	31
	The Nature of Multicultural Counseling Competence	31
	The Harm of Cultural Insensitivity	32
	Good Counseling Is Culturally Responsive Counseling	32
	A Tripartite Framework for Understanding the Multiple Dimensions of Identity	32
	Individual Level: "All Individuals Are, in Some Respects, Like No Other Individuals"	34

Group Level: "All Individuals Are, in Some Respects, Like Some Other Individuals"	35
Universal Level: "All Individuals Are, in Some Respects, Like All Other Individuals"	35
Individual and Universal Biases in Psychology and Mental Health	36
The Impact of Group Identities on Counseling and Psychotherapy	37
What Is Multicultural Counseling and Therapy (MCT)?	37
What Is Cultural Competence?	38
Social Justice and Cultural Competence	41
Implications for Clinical Practice	42
Summary	43
References	44
Chapter 3 Multicultural Counseling Competence for Counselors and Therapists of Marginalized Groups	47
Interracial and Interethnic Biases	49
Impact on Interracial Counseling Relationships	49
Stereotypes Held by Socially Marginalized Group Members	50
The Who-Is-More-Oppressed Game	50
Counselors from Marginalized Groups Working with Majority and Other Marginalized Group Clients	51
The Politics of Interethnic and Interracial Bias and Discrimination	52
The Historical and Political Relationships Between Groups of Color	54
African Americans and Asian Americans	54
Asian Americans and Latinx Americans	55
Latinx Americans and Black Americans	55
American Indians and Black, Latinx, and Asian Americans	56
Differences Between Racial/Ethnic Groups	56
Cultural Values	56
Communication Styles	57
Issues Regarding Stage of Ethnic Identity	58
Counselors of Color and Dyadic Combinations	58
Challenges Associated with Counselor of Color and White Client Dyads	58
Situation 1: Challenging the Competency of Counselors of Color	59
Situation 2: Needing to Prove Competence	59
Situation 3: Transferring Racial Animosity toward White Clients	60
Situation 4: Viewing the Counselor of Color as a Super Minority Counselor	60
Situation 5: Dealing with Client Expressions of Racism	61
Challenges Associated with Counselor of Color and Client of Color Dyads	62
Situation 1: Overidentifying with the Client	62
Situation 2: Encountering Clashes in Cultural Values	63
Situation 3: Experiencing Clashes in Communication and Counseling Styles	63
Situation 4: Receiving and Expressing Racial Animosity	64
Situation 5: Dealing with the Racial Identity Status of Counselors and Clients	65
Implications for Clinical Practice	66
Summary	67
References	68

PART II The Impact and Social Justice Implications of Counseling and Psychotherapy	71
Chapter 4 The Political and Social Justice Implications of Counseling and Psychotherapy	73
The Mental Health Impact of Sociopolitical Oppression	75
Sociopolitical Oppression and the Training of Counseling/ Mental Health Professionals	77
Definitions of Mental Health	77
Normality as a Statistical Concept	77
Normality as Ideal Mental Health	78
Abnormality as the Presence of Certain Behaviors	78
Curriculum and Training Deficiencies	79
Counseling and Mental Health Literature	80
Pathology and Persons of Color	81
The Genetically Deficient Model	81
The Culturally Deficient Model	82
The Culturally Diverse Model	83
The Need to Treat Social Problems—Social Justice Counseling	84
Principle 1: A Failure to Develop a Balanced Perspective Between Person and System Focus Can Result in False Attribution of the Problem	85
Principle 2: A Failure to Develop a Balanced Perspective Between Person and System Focus Can Result in an Ineffective and Inaccurate Treatment Plan Potentially Harmful to the Client	87
Principle 3: When the Client Is an Organization or a Larger System and Not an Individual, a Major Paradigm Shift Is Required to Attain a True Understanding of Problem and Solution Identification	87
Principle 4: Organizations Are Microcosms of the Wider Society From Which They Originate; As a Result, They Are Likely to Be Reflections of the Monocultural Values and Practices of the Larger Culture	87
Principle 5: Organizations Are Powerful Entities That Inevitably Resist Change and Possess Many Ways to Force Compliance Among Workers; Going against the Policies, Practices, and Procedures of the Institution, for Example, Can Bring About Major Punitive Actions	88
Principle 6: When Multicultural Organizational Development Is Required, Alternative Helping Roles That Emphasize Systems Intervention and Advocacy Skills Must Be Part of the Repertoire of the Mental Health Professional	88
Principle 7: Although Remediation Will Always Be Needed, Prevention Is Better	89
Social Justice Counseling	89
Advocacy for Organizational Change	90
Social Justice Advocacy and Cultural Humility	91
Social Justice Advocacy and Counseling Roles	92
Implications for Clinical Practice	92
Summary	93
References	94

Chapter 5	The Impact of Systemic Oppression Within the Counseling Process: Client Worldviews and Counselor Credibility	98
	Locating Clients' Problems Entirely Inside the Clients	99
	Culturally Related Responses That Reproduce Stereotypes	100
	Responding When the Issues are Our Own: White Fragility	100
	Effects of Historical and Current Oppression	101
	Ethnocentric Monoculturalism	102
	Belief in the Superiority of the Dominant Group	102
	Belief in the Inferiority of Others	103
	Power to Impose Standards	103
	Manifestation in Institutions	103
	The Invisible Veil	104
	Historical Manifestations of Ethnocentric Monoculturalism	104
	Surviving Systemic Oppression	105
	Counselor Credibility and Attractiveness	107
	Counselor Credibility	107
	Expertness	107
	Trustworthiness	109
	Formation of Individual and Systemic Worldviews	110
	Locus of Control	111
	Externality and Culture	111
	Externality and Sociopolitical Factors	112
	Locus of Responsibility	112
	Formation of Worldviews	112
	Internal Locus of Control (IC)–Internal Locus of Responsibility (IR)	113
	Counseling Implications	113
	External Locus of Control (EC)–Internal Locus of Responsibility (IR)	113
	Counseling Implications	114
	External Locus of Control (EC)–External Locus of Responsibility (ER)	114
	Counseling Implications	115
	Internal Locus of Control (IC)–External Locus of Responsibility (ER)	115
	Counseling Implications	115
	Implications for Clinical Practice	115
	Summary	116
	References	117
Chapter 6	Microaggressions in Counseling and Psychotherapy	119
	Christina M. Capodilupo
	Contemporary Forms of Oppression	123
	The Evolution of the "Isms": Microaggressions	124
	Microassault	125
	Microinsult	125
	Microinvalidation	126
	The Dynamics and Dilemmas of Microaggressions	129
	Dilemma 1: The Clash of Sociodemographic Realities	130
	Dilemma 2: The Invisibility of Unintentional Expressions of Bias	131

Dilemma 3: The Perceived Minimal Harm of Microaggressions	131
Dilemma 4: The Catch-22 of Responding to Microaggressions	132
Therapeutic Implications	133
Manifestations of Microaggressions in Counseling/Therapy	134
The Path Forward	137
Implications for Clinical Practice	137
Summary	137
References	138
PART III The Practice Dimensions of Multicultural Counseling and Therapy	143
Chapter 7 Multicultural Barriers and the Helping Professional: The Individual	145
Interplay of Cultural Perspectives	145
My Therapist Didn't Understand	146
Standard Characteristics of Mainstream Counseling	146
Culture-Bound Values	147
Focus on the Individual	147
Verbal/Emotional/Behavioral Expressiveness	149
Insight	149
Self-Disclosure (Openness and Intimacy)	150
Scientific Empiricism	151
Distinctions Between Mental and Physical Functioning	151
Patterns of Communication	152
Class-Bound Values	152
Impact of Poverty	152
Therapeutic Class Bias	153
Language Barriers	155
Patterns of "American" Cultural Assumptions and Multicultural
Family Counseling/Therapy	156
People–Nature Dimension	157
Time Dimension	158
Relational Dimension	159
Activity Dimension	160
Nature of People Dimension	161
Overgeneralizing and Stereotyping	162
Implications for Clinical Practice	163
Summary	163
References	164
Chapter 8 Communication Style and Its Impact on Counseling and Psychotherapy	168
Communication Styles	170
Nonverbal Communication	171
Proxemics	171
Kinesics	172
Paralanguage	174
High/Low-Context Communication	175
Sociopolitical Facets of Nonverbal Communication	176

Nonverbals as Reflections of Bias	177
Nonverbals as Triggers to Biases and Fears	178
Counseling and Therapy as Communication Style	181
Differential Skills in MCT	181
Implications for MCT	182
Implications for Clinical Practice	184
Summary	185
References	186
Chapter 9 Multicultural Evidence-Based Practice (EBP)	188
Evidence-Based Practice (EBP) And Multiculturalism	191
Empirically Supported Treatment (EST)	192
Implications	194
Empirically Supported Relationships (ESRs)	195
The Therapeutic Alliance	196
Emotional or Interpersonal Bond	198
Empathy	198
Positive Regard, Respect, Warmth, and Genuineness	200
Self-Disclosure	201
Management of Countertransference	201
Goal Consensus	202
Evidence-Based Practice (EBP) And Diversity Issues in Counseling	203
Implications for Clinical Practice	206
Summary	207
References	208
Chapter 10 Non-Western Indigenous Methods of Healing: Implications for Multicultural Counseling and Therapy (MCT)	212
Worldviews and Cultural Syndromes	214
The Shaman and Traditional Healer as Therapist: Commonalities	215
A Case of Child Abuse?	217
The Principles of Indigenous Healing	218
Holistic Outlook, Interconnectedness, and Harmony	219
Belief in Metaphysical Levels of Existence	220
Acceptance of Spirituality in Life and the Cosmos	222
Examples of Indigenous Healing Approaches	224
Ho'oponopono	224
Native American Sweat Lodge Ceremony	224
Dangers and Benefits of Spirituality	226
Implications for Clinical Practice	227
Summary	227
References	228
PART IV Racial, Ethnic, Cultural (REC) Attitudes in Multicultural Counseling and Therapy	231
Chapter 11 Racial, Ethnic, Cultural (REC) Identity Attitudes in People of Color: Counseling Implications	233
Racial Awakening	234

Oriental, Asian, or White?	234
Denial Breakdown	235
The Internal Struggle for Identity	235
Locus of the Problem	235
REC Identity Attitude Models	236
Foundational REC Models	236
A General Model of REC Identity	238
Conformity Status	239
Dissonance Status	241
Resistance and Immersion Status	242
Introspection Status	244
Integrative Awareness Status	245
Counseling Implications of the R/CID Model	246
Conformity Status	247
Dissonance Status	248
Resistance and Immersion Status	248
Introspection Status	249
Integrative Awareness Status	249
Value of a General REC Identity Framework	249
Implications for Clinical Practice	251
Summary	251
References	252
Chapter 12 White Racial Identity Development: Counseling Implications	255
Understanding the Dynamics of Whiteness	258
Models of White Racial Identity Development	260
The Hardiman White Racial Identity Development Model	260
The Helms White Racial Identity Development Model	261
The Process of White Racial Identity Development: A Descriptive Model	263
Seven-Step Process	264
Developing a Nonracist and Antiracist White Identity	267
White Antiracist Identifications	269
Principles of Prejudice Reduction	270
Principle 1: Learn About People of Color From Sources Within the Group	270
Principle 2: Learn From Healthy and Strong People of the Culture	271
Principle 3: Learn From Experiential Reality	271
Principle 4: Learn From Constant Vigilance of Your Biases and Fears	272
Principle 5: Learn From Being Committed to Personal Action Against Racism	272
Implications for Clinical Practice	273
Summary	273
References	274
 SECTION TWO Multicultural Counseling and Specific Populations	277
PART V Understanding Specific Populations	279
Chapter 13 Culturally Competent Assessment	281
Therapist Variables Affecting Diagnosis	283

Cultural Competence and Preventing Diagnostic Errors	284
Cultural Self-Awareness	285
Cultural Knowledge	286
Culturally Responsive or Multicultural Skills	287
Contextual and Collaborative Assessment	287
Collaborative Conceptualization Model	288
Principles of Collaborative Conceptualization	289
Infusing Cultural Relevance into Standard Clinical Assessments	290
Cultural Formulation Interview	291
Culturally Sensitive Intake Interview	291
Diversity-Focused Assessment	294
Implications for Clinical Practice	295
Summary	295
References	296
PART VI Counseling and Therapy with Racial/Ethnic Minority Group Populations	299
Chapter 14 Counseling African Americans	301
Characteristics and Strengths	303
Racial and Ethnic Identity	303
Implications	304
Family Structure	304
Implications	305
Spiritual and Religious Values	306
Implications	306
Educational Characteristics	306
Implications	306
African American Youth	307
Cultural Strengths	308
Specific Challenges	309
Racism and Discrimination	309
Implications	310
Implications for Clinical Practice	311
Summary	312
References	313
Chapter 15 Counseling American Indians/Native Americans and Alaska Natives	316
Characteristics and Strengths	318
Tribal Social Structure	318
Implications	318
Family Structure	319
Implications	319
Cultural and Spiritual Values	319
Cultural Strengths	320
Specific Challenges	321
Historical and Sociopolitical Background	321
Implications	322
Educational Concerns	322

Implications	322
Acculturation Conflicts	323
Implications	324
Alcohol and Substance Abuse	324
Implications	325
Domestic Violence	325
Implications	325
Suicide	326
Implications	326
Implications for Clinical Practice	327
Summary	328
References	328
Chapter 16 Counseling Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders	331
Characteristics and Strengths	333
Asian Americans: A Success Story?	333
Collectivistic Orientation	334
Implications	335
Hierarchical Relationships	335
Implications	336
Parenting Styles	336
Implications	336
Emotionality	337
Implications	337
Holistic View on Mind and Body	337
Implications	338
Academic and Occupational Goal Orientation	338
Implications	338
Cultural Strengths	338
Specific Challenges	339
Racial Identity Issues	339
Implications	340
Acculturation Conflicts	340
Implications	340
Expectations Regarding Counseling	341
Implications	341
Racism and Discrimination	342
Implications	342
Implications for Clinical Practice	343
Summary	344
References	345
Chapter 17 Counseling Latinx Populations	348
Characteristics and Strengths	350
Cultural Values and Characteristics	350
Implications	350
Family Structure	351

Implications	351
Gender Role Expectations	352
Implications	353
Spiritual and Religious Values	353
Implications	353
Educational Characteristics	354
Implications	354
Cultural Strengths	355
Specific Challenges	355
Stigma Associated with Mental Illness	355
Implications	356
Acculturation Conflicts	356
Implications	358
Linguistic Issues	359
Implications	359
Implications for Clinical Practice	359
Summary	360
References	361
Chapter 18 Counseling Multiracial Populations	364
Characteristics and Strengths	366
Multiracialism in the United States	366
Implications	367
The “One Drop of Blood” Rule	367
Implications	368
Strengths	368
Specific Challenges	369
Racial/Ethnic Ambiguity: “What Are You?”	369
Implications	370
Racial Identity Invalidation	370
Implications	372
Intermarriage, Stereotypes, and Myths	372
Implications	373
Discrimination and Racism	373
Implications	373
A Multiracial Bill of Rights	374
Implications	374
Implications for Clinical Practice	374
Summary	375
References	376
PART VII Counseling and Special Circumstances Involving Racial/Ethnic Populations	379
Chapter 19 Counseling Arab Americans and Muslim Americans	381
Characteristics and Strengths	382
Arab Americans	382
Muslim Americans	383

Cultural and Religious Values	384
Family Structure and Values	384
Implications	385
Cultural Strengths	385
Specific Challenges	385
Stereotypes, Racism, and Discrimination	385
Implications	387
Acculturation Conflicts	388
Implications	388
Implications for Clinical Practice	389
Summary	390
References	390
Chapter 20 Counseling Immigrants and Refugees	393
Characteristics and Strengths	396
Historical and Sociopolitical Factors	396
Cultural and Acculturation Issues	398
Implications	398
Gender Issues and Domestic Violence	398
Implications	399
Strengths	399
Specific Challenges	400
Prejudice and Discrimination	400
Implications	400
Barriers to Seeking Treatment	401
Linguistic and Communication Issues	402
Implications	402
Counseling Refugees	403
Effects of Past Persecution, Torture, or Trauma	404
Implications	404
Safety Issues and Coping with Loss	404
Implications	405
Implications for Clinical Practice	405
Summary	407
References	407
Chapter 21 Counseling Jewish Americans	410
Characteristics and Strengths	412
Spiritual and Religious Values	412
Ethnic Identity	413
Gender-Related Considerations	414
Cultural Strengths	415
Specific Challenges	415
Historical Background and Sociopolitical Challenges	415
Prejudice and Discrimination	416

Implications for Clinical Practice	418
Summary	420
References	420
PART VIII Counseling and Therapy with Other Multicultural Populations	423
Chapter 22 Counseling Individuals with Disabilities	425
Characteristics and Strengths	427
The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)	427
Implications	427
Myths Regarding Individuals with Disabilities	428
Models of Disability	429
Implications	429
Life Satisfaction	430
Implications	430
Sexuality and Reproduction	431
Implications	431
Spirituality and Religiosity	431
Implications	431
Strengths	432
Specific Challenges	432
Prejudice and Discrimination	432
Implications	433
Supports for Individuals with Disabilities	434
Implications	435
Counseling Issues with Individuals with Disabilities	435
Implications	436
Family Counseling	436
Implications	436
Implications for Clinical Practice	437
Summary	438
References	438
Chapter 23 Counseling LGBTQ Populations	441
Characteristics and Strengths	443
Sexual and Gender Identity Awareness	443
Implications	444
LGBTQ Youth	444
Implications	445
LGBTQ Couples and Families	446
Implications	446
Strengths	447
Specific Challenges	447
Coming Out	447
Implications	448
Prejudice, Discrimination, and Misconceptions	449

Implications	451
Aging	451
Implications	451
Implications for Clinical Practice	452
Summary	454
References	454
Chapter 24 Counseling Older Adults	458
Characteristics and Strengths	459
Physical and Economic Health	459
Implications	460
Sexuality in Later Years	460
Implications	461
Strengths	461
Specific Challenges	462
Prejudice and Discrimination	462
Implications	463
Mental Deterioration	463
Implications	464
Elder Abuse and Neglect	465
Implications	466
Substance Abuse	466
Implications	467
Social Isolation, Depression, and Suicide	467
Implications	468
Implications for Clinical Practice	468
Summary	470
References	470
Chapter 25 Counseling Individuals Living in Poverty	474
Characteristics and Strengths	476
Strengths	477
Specific Challenges	478
The Cultural Invisibility and Social Exclusion of the Poor	478
Educational Inequities	478
Implications	479
Poverty and Mental Illness	479
Implications	480
Environmental Injustice	480
Disparities in the Judicial System	480
Classism and the Minimum Wage	480
Health Care Inequities	481
Negative Attitudes and Beliefs	481
Implications for Clinical Practice	482
Summary	485
References	485

Chapter 26 Counseling Women	488
Characteristics and Strengths	490
Societal Roles and Expectations	490
Implications	491
Strengths	491
Specific Challenges	492
Discrimination, Harassment, and Victimization	492
Implications	493
Educational Barriers	493
Implications	494
Economic and Employment Barriers	494
Implications	495
Ageism and Women	496
Implications	496
Depression	497
Implications	498
Gender Bias in Therapy	498
Implications for Clinical Practice	499
Summary	500
References	501
Index	505
Chapter 25 Counseling Individuals Living in Poverty	484
Characteristics and Strengths	484
Specific Challenges	484
The Cultural Instability and Social Exclusion of the Poor	484
Educational Inequities	484
Implications	484
Sexual and Gender Inequities	484
Implications	484
Poverty and Mental Illness	484
Implications	484
Environmental Injustices	484
Inequities in the Health Care System	484
Classism and the Minimum Wage	484
Health Care Inequities	484
Negative Attitudes and Beliefs	484
Implications for Clinical Practice	484
Summary	484
References	484
Chapter 23 Counseling LGBTQ Youth	478
Characteristics and Strengths	478
Specific Challenges	478
Sexual and Gender Inequities	478
Implications	478
Poverty and Mental Illness	478
Implications	478
Environmental Injustices	478
Inequities in the Health Care System	478
Classism and the Minimum Wage	478
Health Care Inequities	478
Negative Attitudes and Beliefs	478
Implications for Clinical Practice	478
Summary	478
References	478