

CONTENTS

Part I Introduction

- 1 Media Convergence Meets Deconvergence 3
Corinna Peil and Sergio Sparviero
- 2 Deconstructing “Media Convergence”: A Cultural History of the Buzzword, 1980s–2010s 31
Gabriele Balbi

Part II Media Audiences and Usage

- 3 Convergence in Domestic Media Use? The Interplay of Old and New Media at Home 55
Kathrin Friederike Müller and Jutta Röser
- 4 Blurred Lines, Distinct Forces: The Evolving Practices of Italian TV Audiences in a Convergent Scenario 75
Luca Barra and Massimo Scaglioni

- 5 Media Convergence and the Network Society: Media Logic(s), Polymedia and the Transition of the Public Sphere 93
Caja Thimm
- 6 Deconstructing Audiences in Converging Media Environments 113
Uwe Hasebrink and Sascha Hölig

Part III Production and Distribution of Media Content

- 7 Convergent Media Quality? Comparing the Content of Online and Offline Media in Switzerland 137
Mark Eisenegger, Mario Schranz and Angelo Gisler
- 8 Transmedia Storytelling and Mega-Narration: Audiovisual Production in Converged Media Environments 159
Lothar Mikos
- 9 Web 2.0: An Argument Against Convergence 177
Matthew Allen

Part IV Regulation and Media Markets

- 10 The Deconverging Convergence of the Global Communication Industries in the Twenty-First Century 199
Dal Yong Jin
- 11 Deconstructing the Music Industry Ecosystem 217
Jim Rogers
- 12 Is Convergence the “Killer Bug” in the Media Ecosystem? The Case of Flemish Media Policymaking 2010–2015 241
Hilde Van den Bulck

13 Connected TV: Conceptualizing the Fit Between Convergence and Organizational Strategy Within a Contingency Theory Framework: The Case of Germany	261
Paul Clemens Murschetz
14 Regulatory (de) Convergence: Localism, Federalism, and Nationalism in American Telecommunications Policy	285
Christopher Ali
15 The Triple-Network Convergence in China: Implementation and Challenges	305
Fei Jiang, Kuo Huang and Yanran Sun
Index	329

About the Editors

Sergio Spaviero is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Communication Studies of the University of Salzburg, Austria. His main field of research and teaching are media economics, media management, and media innovation. In particular, he published research on the developments of the news, film and music industries. He is also the coordinator of the Erasmus + Joint Master Program "Digital Communication Leadership" (DCLead).

Corinna Fell is a Postdoctoral Researcher at the University of Salzburg's Department of Communication Studies, Center for Information and Communication Technologies & Society (ICT&S), Austria. Her research and teaching focus is on mobile communications, media (de)convergence, online public, the use of media in everyday life contexts, and the mediatization of society.

Gabriele Balbi is Senior Assistant Professor at the Institute of Media and Journalism, Faculty of Communication Sciences, ISS Università della Svizzera Italiana, Switzerland. He is director of the Media Observatory. His main areas of research are media and mass communication, telecommunications, with a focus on the relationships between analogue and digital media.