

Contents

List of Figures and Table	vii
List of Maps	ix
Acknowledgements	x
Foreword	xi
Notes on the Contributors	xiii
Part 1 Introduction	1
1 Memory, Spatial Planning and the Construction of Cultural Identity in Belfast and Berlin – an Overview William J.V. Neill	3
2 The Urban Planning Context in Berlin: a City Twice Unique Hanns-Uve Schwedler	24
3 The Urban Planning Context in Belfast: a City Between War and Peace William J.V. Neill	42
Part II Spatial Planning and Urban Design in Berlin and Belfast	55
4 A New Plan for Berlin's Inner City: Planwerk Innenstadt Wolfgang Süchting and Patrick Weiss	57
5 Struggle for the Inner City – a Plan Becomes a Declaration of War Simone Hain	69
6 Victorian and Edwardian Belfast: Preserving the Architectural Legacy of the Inner City Sir Charles Brett	85
7 Architectural Ambivalence: the Built Environment and Cultural Identity in Belfast Malachy McEldowney, Ken Sterrett and Frank Gaffikin	100

Part III Cultural Diversity in Berlin and Belfast: Cultural Quarters within the City	119
8 Turkish Commercial and Business Activities in Berlin: a Case of Organic Urban Development and Contact Renate Müller	121
9 Contacts and Conflicts over Worship and Burial in the Kreuzberg District of Berlin Peter Heine	134
10 Remaking the City: the Role of Culture in Belfast Frank Gaffikin, Michael Morrissey and Ken Sterrett	141
Part IV Promoting the City in Berlin and Belfast	163
11 The Variety of Identities -- Experiences from Berlin Bernhard Schneider	165
12 Building a Shared Future: the Laganside Initiative in Belfast Mike Smith and Kyle Alexander	177
13 The Culturally Inclusive City: the Belfast Potential Bill Morrison	194
Part V Conclusion	205
14 Planning with an Ethic of Cultural Inclusion: Lessons from Berlin and Belfast William J.V. Neill and Hanns-Uve Schwedler	207
Bibliography	216
Index	224